

AT LEAST 1,200 DIE IN IRAN QUAKE

5 Die as Plane Plows into Auto

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Death came from out of the blue Sunday when a single-engine airplane plummeted onto a moving auto.

The two occupants in the plane and three in the car perished in the flaming explosion that followed.

Three other car passengers escaped death but were injured.

The accident happened as the car cruised on busy U. S. 40 about 17 miles east of downtown Columbus.

Both plane and car burned fiercely while a woman passenger in the auto, Dorothy Vingle, 49, pulled three of the dead and injured from the vehicle. She asked someone to call a priest.

"I don't care if they are dead," she was heard to say. "I don't want them to burn."

At least one of the car passengers was thrown from the wreckage.

The dead are:
Mrs. Vingle's son, Jim, 14.
Her daughter, Mrs. Rita Cecile Lyle, 20.

Mrs. Vingle's sister, Mrs. Julia Jacques, 58.

The pilot, Delbert Charles Stiles, 23.

His wife, Monalee, 22.

All were from Columbus.

Surviving the crash besides Mrs. Vingle were her son, John, 22, the car driver, and her niece, Linda Armentrout, 14, all of Columbus.

Mrs. Vingle and her niece were reported in satisfactory condition and John Vingle in fair condition at St. Anthony's Hospital here.

An eyewitness to the crash, Bill Colbert, 26, who lives alongside the highway, said the plane was flying "real low" over his home.

After it went by, he said, it circled and headed in the opposite direction, passing over his home again.

"It looked like it was having trouble bucking the wind," Colbert said. "It looked like the wind was blowing it sideways. I thought it was going to hit the house."

Driver Hurt In Car Crash

Harry H. Crago, 45, Route 1, Orient, was injured when his car crashed on Route 762 about 15 miles northwest of Circleville at 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

Crago was taken to Doctors Hospital, Columbus, for a laceration on the left arm, internal injuries and possible rib fractures.

Crago told Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliffe that lights of an approaching auto blinded him, causing him to lose control on a curve. The injured driver was headed east.

Deputy Radcliffe said the car was heavily damaged.

Ohio Elks To Open Parley Wednesday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The four-day 62nd annual convention of the Ohio Elks Assn. will open in Columbus Wednesday, Dr. David S. Goldschmidt of Circleville, association president, announced today.

A youth day program is scheduled on the Statehouse grounds Saturday. It will include announcement of winners of Elks youth leadership and scholarship contests.

CHS, Atwater, Wayne Improvement Hinge on Bond Issue Passage

What happens in the High School, at Atwater and at Wayne Twp. if the $1,475,500 school bond issue is approved?

These important segments of our school system are scheduled for improvement if voters OK the bond issue May 3.

One of the major reasons for a bond issue at this time is the influx of students at the high school level. Since 1950 the high school has grown from 479 students to 614 today. That is growth of 135 students, about five classes.

In just two years, by 1961, the growth will be greater than during the last 10 years. There will be 759 in the high school in the fall of 1961—growth of 145 in two years.

It is clear, we must furnish rooms for these students.

THE PLAN calls for moving the 7th and 8th grades, now at the high school building, to the neighborhood units, thus freeing those rooms for the additional high school students.

Some $25,000 of the bond issue money will be spent at the High School. It will go to expand the home economics department and to remodel the toilets.

The expanded home economics department will afford a broader curriculum in this area, allowing the school to give those students who wish a home economics major subject.

Present toilet facilities are antiquated and unsanitary. For the last 10 years, school officials have been trying to improve the sanitary facilities. They plan to put in new fixtures and remodel the rooms to make them easier to maintain in a clean, odorless condition.

Atwater is now at the seaming stage.

Every room is filled to capacity. The practice of carrying students from Circleville and Washington Twp. to Atwater by bus has had to be curtailed. There just is no room for them any longer.

Atwater will get five new rooms, if the bond issue is approved. There will be two 7th grade rooms.

Smoking Briefcase Alerts Airport

NEW YORK (AP)—When a baggage handler at the East Side Airline Terminal noticed smoke seeping from the flap of a briefcase Sunday night, everything ground to a halt.

The briefcase owner, Paul Luerck of Toledo, Ohio, assured a police bomb squad that the case contained nothing explosive—just papers and odds and ends.

A squad lieutenant gingerly shook out the contents as firemen stood ready with a hose.

Out popped the "odds and ends"—Luerck's collection of souvenir matchbooks, thoroughly charred.

NEW ADDITION HERE — Atwater School will get a new five-room addition in the area shown here, if the $1,475,500 bond issue is approved by voters May 3. The addition will give the school two 7th, two 8th grade and a handwork room. (Staff Photo)

Jack, Hubert Working Again In W. Virginia

Two Democratic rivals, who will debate together on television in 10 days, rode separate buses through West Virginia today in a race for primary votes.

Other Democratic presidential candidates hunted for votes in other parts of the country, although one, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, described his tour as nonpolitical.

In Las Vegas, Nev., Sunday, Johnson stood under a huge banner saying "Johnson for President" and told newsmen: "No, I'm not seeking the Democratic nomination."

On the Republican side, a poll and a newspaper report had news that could be troublesome for Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The poll indicated Nixon might run behind a Democrat, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, in the Indiana primary. The news report talked of an attempt by Harold Stassen to start a new stop-Nixon movement.

In West Virginia, the bus of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota headed north from Charleston, while the bus of Kennedy headed out of Huntington into the coal areas of the south.

The aides of the two senators agreed Sunday to schedule a televised debate for May 4, six days before the West Virginia primary. The debate will be carried on five state stations. There is a possibility of a debate in Washington.

150 School Bond Issues On Ballot in May 3 Primary

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—More than 150 school bond and levy issues will go before the voters for approval in the May 3 primary, the Ohio Education Assn. reports.

The total is more than double the number proposed in the 1956 presidential primary.

Bond issues total 48½ millions are being submitted by 56 school districts, compared with 57 issues for $36,900,000 four years ago, according to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown. Voters will consider 103 tax levies, as compared with 21 in 1956.

For the first time, because of legislation enacted by the 1959 General Assembly, a simple majority vote will be required for passage of bond issues. Previously a 55 per cent majority was needed at all special and primary elections.

Largest school bond issue in the state is for $4,900,000 at Kettering. Other multi-million dollar construction proposals are up at Parma ($2,900,000) and South western city ($2,500,000).

Six school districts will ask voter approval on levies totaling 13 or more mills: Ashland 13.9 mills; Cleveland 15.6 mills; Garfield Heights 17 mills; Strongsville 14.7 mills; Hamilton (Jackson County) 14 mills and Bristol (Trumbull County) 15.7 mills.

School bond issues submitted at the 1956 presidential primary did not fair too well the association said. Four years ago 56 per cent of the bond issues were approved compared with 61.5 per cent in the 1959 primary. Only 46.7 per cent of the levies were approved in 1956 while 73 per cent were okay last spring.

Clarence Radcliffe, 44, of 308 Northridge Road, yesterday was elected District Governor of District 13-B Lions International.

Radcliffe, as such, will be leader of 36,000 Lions in 50 clubs throughout an 11-county area. He was elected yesterday at the annual district convention in Columbus.

Radcliffe has been senior deputy district governor. He will be installed as district governor July 8 at the annual international convention of the Lions Club at Chicago. He will serve one year.

Counties in District 13-B are Pickaway, Franklin, Fairfield, Morgan, Licking, Muskingum, Guernsey, Perry, Hocking, Monroe and Noble.

About 22 members of the local Lions Club and their wives attended the district convention.

County Census Nears Completion

Pickaway County's census chief, Mrs. Eugene P. Hanson, Northridge Road, today reported her enumerators will complete the 1960 census this week.

She said that one area in Circleville has not been counted. It includes the south side of W. Main St. and the west side of S. Court St., which will be covered this week.

Mrs. Hanson asked all persons, other than those residing in the Court and Main St. area not counted, who haven't been enumerated to call her at GR 4-2693.

She thanked all residents in her district for their fine cooperation and said there were few unpleasant incidents.

New Violence Breaks Out In Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Tear gas and gunfire exploded again in Seoul tonight as Koreans renewed their demonstrations against President Syngman Rhee and his vice president who, many claim, was elected through fraud.

For the first time since last week's riots took 130 lives, crowds gathered in the streets to demand the resignation of the 85-year-old President and his running mate, Vice President Lee Ki-poong.

A crowd of a few hundred students tried to break into the vice president-elect's home, and gunfire broke out. Apparently the shots were blanks, fired either by the soldiers enforcing martial law or the police.

Several persons were injured in this clash. A report that three demonstrators had been killed was distributed by the Hapdong News Agency, but withdrawn later. Hapdong said the information was not borne out.

Seoul was placed under second degree "security martial law" during the day, but full martial law was reinstated tonight.

Soldiers with gas masks and fixed bayonets fired tear gas into one crowd of 5,000 students and civilians led by 200 middle-aged college professors who marched on the National Assembly building.

The crowd called for the resignation of Rhee, all Supreme Court justices and all members of the Assembly. It fell back, apparently stunned, when the soldiers used tear gas. Most seemed to have believed the soldiers were on their side. Three medium tanks rumbled into the streets, guns trained on the demonstrators.

The renewed demonstrations in effect were a noisy popular rejection of President Rhee's plans to bring political peace to South Korea.

Rhee has promised to run the country as a nonpartisan president, surrendering his leadership of the Liberal party, but he showed no inclination to give up his autocratic powers. He is under heavy criticism for failing to call new elections.

Hours after the march began to the Assembly building, more than 2,000 remained massed in the area, guarded by cordon of about 300 infantrymen. In the distance, tanks could be seen blocking the streets toward the Capitol and Rhee's presidential palace.

Large City Is Destroyed By Temblor

Bodies of 380 Small Children Recovered From School Area

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — A giant earthquake has devastated the south Iranian city of Lar. The death toll in Lar and neighboring villages is estimated officially at 1,200 to 1,500. Unofficial estimates range to 3,000.

The quake struck Sunday. Destruction of two school buildings trapped many children in this most ruinous disturbance of the earth's crust since 12,000 were killed in Agadir, Morocco, the night of Feb. 29.

The children had assembled in the schools for children's day celebrations. Rescue workers recovered 380 small bodies from the debris.

One hundred bodies were found elsewhere in a continuing hunt through the city of 17,000. Of Lar's police force of 55 men, only one was said to have survived.

Gov. Nosrat Qarib reported the city destroyed.

"The town's strongest building — my own office — has toppled," Qarib said in the first report announcing the disaster. "Nothing can be seen because of the billowing clouds of dust. Please rush food and tents."

Most of the victims were believed to be women and children. Men were working in the fields when the quake struck.

The menace of poisonous snakes added to the horror.

Gov. Qarib reported that snakes found their way under the debris and attacked trapped victims. Many of those rescued were suffering from snake bites. Authorities appealed to Tehran for serum.

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi ordered quick relief measures. Iranian air force planes parachuted flour, sugar and eggs into the area and set up an airlift to ferry in other food, medicine and tents.

The U. S. government was the first foreign government to pledge aid. It made 100 tons of flour quickly available.

Queen Farah ordered government authorities to bring to her Tehran orphanages all the children of Lar who lost their parents in the quake.

Lar is 550 miles south of Tehran.

Special trains and other conveyances moved injured victims to a city hospital in Shiraz, 170 miles north of Lar.

The village of Gerash, 15 miles south of Lar, also was completely destroyed. The village had a population of about 1,000 and "only a few hundred survived," authorities said.

The first shock struck about 4:15 p. m., sending most of the buildings in the city crashing down. Officials reports most persons inside at the time were killed.

A second quake hit about six hours later and reportedly destroyed what had been left standing.

Rescue workers who reached Lar this morning feared the only survivors would be those who were in the open air and away from buildings when the first quake struck.

State May Create Own 'Boys Town' To Aid Juveniles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A state boys' town is in the making.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said today he contemplates a pilot institution for juveniles committed to the state without previous records who might respond to special treatment.

If successful, the governor indicated the system might be developed to help relieve overcrowding at the Boys' Industrial School near Lancaster.

The new state school probably would start with boys between 10 and 12 years of age, DiSalle indicated. He said it could be expanded for higher age groups and possibly for girls.

"I don't think we can take every boy committed and put him in one institution like Lancaster and expect to get the type of readjustment necessary to make them into useful citizens," DiSalle said.

He added that nearly one-third of those at Lancaster wind up in other institutions.

DeGaulle Urges Destruction Of All Nuclear Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle told the U. S. Congress today that destruction of nuclear weapons "by common consent" under international supervision offers the only hope "for the future of our species."

The French leader declared that unless other powers—the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union renounce atomic weapons—"the French Republic obviously will be obliged to equip itself with such armaments." Other nations presumably will do the same, he added.

"In the state of increasing uncertainty in which fear throws the peoples of the world," De Gaulle said, "the risk grows that, one day, events will escape from the control of those who obey reason and that the worst catastrophes will be unleashed by fanatics, lunatics, or men of ambition."

The French President appeared

before the joint meeting of House and Senate as his four-day visit to Washington and summit talks with President Eisenhower were drawing to a close.

His 1,000-word prepared speech, delivered in French while legislators read English translations, heavily emphasized disarmament but warned the Soviet Union anew against trying to force a showdown with the West over Berlin.

De Gaulle said it would be unfortunate and untimely for any one of the powers to press a demand for the conclusion of treaties, settlement of borders or other actions "in the most sensitive regions"—an obvious reference to split Germany and the divided city of Berlin.

The great need now, he said, is for the Soviet Union and the Western powers to achieve a lessening of tension between nations.

In another obvious thrust at Soviet presumptuous maneuvers, De Gaulle said "any attempt to aggravate the wounds suffered by the German people must be avoided."

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, on his recent visit with De Gaulle, carried on a propaganda campaign against West Germany evidently in hopes of stirring up old fears and hatreds in Western Europe.

Similarly Khrushchev has been warning that he may undertake to force the Western powers out of West Berlin if they do not come to terms with him.

Living Costs Rocket to New High

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's living costs hit a new record in March.

The first rise in food prices in six months edged the Labor Department's consumer's price index of the 1947-49 living cost average.

The average price increase over the February level was only one-tenth of one per cent. The March average was 1.6 per cent above the same month last year.

Arnold Chase, Labor Department price chief, forecast that food prices will continue a gradual rise up to July or August.

He said the chances are this will carry living costs to still higher levels until late summer.

The March living cost rise brought a one-cent-per-hour pay increase to more than 800,000 employees of the railroad industry. The adjustment means a payroll increase of about 16 million dollars a year.

There were the usual spring up-trends in prices of clothing and gasoline in March and seasonal declines in prices of new and used automobiles and home heating oil.

Chase said he saw no cause for alarm in the fact that living costs have hit a new high. He said prices actually have not gone up as much as experts had believed they would.

"I think this kind of development can be expected in an even ly balanced economy such as we appear to have had in the past several months," he said.

New Violence Breaks Out In Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Tear gas and gunfire exploded again in Seoul tonight as Koreans renewed their demonstrations against President Syngman Rhee and his vice president who, many claim, was elected through fraud.

For the first time since last week's riots took 130 lives, crowds gathered in the streets to demand the resignation of the 85-year-old President and his running mate, Vice President Lee Ki-poong.

A crowd of a few hundred students tried to break into the vice president-elect's home, and gunfire broke out. Apparently the shots were blanks, fired either by the soldiers enforcing martial law or the police.

Several persons were injured in this clash. A report that three demonstrators had been killed was distributed by the Haydon News Agency, but withdrawn later. Haydon said the information was not borne out.

Seoul was placed under second-degree "security martial law" during the day, but full martial law was reinstated tonight.

Soldiers with gas masks and fixed bayonets fired tear gas into one crowd of 5,000 students and civilians led by 200 middle-aged college professors who marched on the National Assembly building.

The crowd called for the resignation of Rhee, all Supreme Court justices and all members of the Assembly. It fell back, apparently stunned, when the soldiers used tear gas. Most seemed to have believed the soldiers were on their side. Three medium tanks rumbled into the streets, guns trained on the demonstrators.

The renewed demonstrations in effect were a noisy popular rejection of President Rhee's plans to bring political peace to South Korea.

Rhee has promised to run the country as a nonpartisan president, surrendering his leadership of the Liberal party, but he showed no inclination to give up his autocratic powers. He is under heavy criticism for failing to call new elections.

Hours after the march began to the Assembly building, more than 2,000 remained massed in the area, guarded by cordon of about 300 infantrymen. In the distance, tanks could be seen blocking the streets toward the Capitol and Rhee's presidential palace.

Large City Is Destroyed By Temblor

Bodies of 380 Small Children Recovered From School Area

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — A giant earthquake has devastated the south Iranian city of Lar. The death toll in Lar and neighboring villages is estimated officially at 1,200 to 1,500. Unofficial estimates range to 3,000.

The quake struck Sunday. Destruction of two school buildings trapped many children in this most ruinous disturbance of the earth's crust since 12,000 were killed in Agadir, Morocco, the night of Feb. 29.

The children had assembled in the schools for children's day celebrations. Rescue workers recovered 380 small bodies from the debris.

One hundred bodies were found elsewhere in a continuing hunt through the city of 17,000. Of Lar's police force of 35 men, only one was said to have survived.

Gov. Nosrat Qarib reported the city destroyed.

"The town's strongest building — my own office — has toppled," Qarib said in the first report announcing the disaster. "Nothing can be seen because of the billowing clouds of dust. Please rush food and tents."

Most of the victims were believed to be women and children. Men were working in the fields when the quake struck.

The menace of poisonous snakes added to the horror.

Gov. Qarib reported that snakes found their way under the debris and attacked trapped victims. Many of those rescued were suffering from snake bites. Authorities appealed to Tehran for serum.

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi ordered quick relief measures. Iranian air force planes parachuted flour, sugar and eggs into the area and set up an airlift to ferry in other food, medicine and tents.

The U. S. government was the first foreign government to pledge aid. It made 100 tons of flour quickly available.

Queen Farah ordered government authorities to bring to her Tehran orphanages all the children of Lar who lost their parents in the quake.

Lar is 550 miles south of Tehran.

Special trains and other conveyances moved injured victims to a city hospital in Shiraz, 170 miles north of Lar.

The village of Gerash, 15 miles south of Lar, also was completely destroyed. The village had a population of about 1,000 and "only a few hundred survived," authorities said.

The first shock struck about 4:15 p. m., sending most of the buildings in the city crashing down. Officials reports most persons inside at the time were killed.

A second quake hit about six hours later and reportedly destroyed what had been left standing.

Rescue workers who reached Lar this morning feared the only survivors would be those who were in the open air and away from buildings when the first quake struck.

State May Create Own 'Boys Town' To Aid Juveniles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A state boys' town is in the making.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said today he contemplates a pilot institution for juveniles committed to the state without previous records who might respond to special treatment.

If successful, the governor indicated the system might be developed to help relieve overcrowding at the Boys' Industrial School near Lancaster.

The new state school probably would start with boys between 10 and 12 years of age, DiSalle indicated. He said it could be expanded for higher age groups and possibly for girls.

"I don't think we can take every boy committed and put him in one institution like Lancaster and expect to get the type of readjustment necessary to make them into useful citizens," DiSalle said.

He added that nearly one-third of those at Lancaster wind up in other institutions.

DeGaulle Urges Destruction Of All Nuclear Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle told the U.S. Congress today that destruction of nuclear weapons "by common consent" under international supervision offers the only hope "for the future of our species."

The French leader declared that unless other powers—the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union renounce atomic weapons—"the French Republic obviously will be obliged to equip itself with such armaments." Other nations presumably will do the same, he added.

"In the state of increasing uncertainty in which fear throws the peoples of the world," De Gaulle said, "the risk grows that, one day, events will escape from the control of those who obey reason and that the worst catastrophes will be unleashed by fanatics, lunatics, or men of ambition."

The French President appeared

before the joint meeting of House and Senate as his four-day visit to Washington and summit talks with President Eisenhower were drawing to a close.

His 1,000-word prepared speech, delivered in French while legislators read English translations, heavily emphasized disarmament but warned the Soviet Union against trying to force a showdown with the West over Berlin.

De Gaulle said it would be unfortunate and untimely for any one of the powers to press a demand for the conclusion of treaties, settlement of borders or other actions "in the most sensitive regions"—an obvious reference to split Germany and the divided city of Berlin.

The great need now, he said, is for the Soviet Union and the Western powers to achieve a lessening of tension between nations.

In another obvious thrust at Soviet presumptuous maneuvers, De Gaulle said "any attempt to aggravate the wounds suffered by the German people must be avoided."

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, on his recent visit with De Gaulle, carried on a propaganda campaign against West Germany evidently in hopes of stirring up old fears and hatreds in Western Europe.

Similarly Khrushchev has been warning that he may undertake to force the Western powers out of West Berlin if they do not come to terms with him.

May 1 Opening For Palm Spot

Drive-In Feature Of New Restaurant

Palm's Restaurant and Drive-In will open the first week of May according to its owner and operator, Otto F. Guenther, 451 E. Main St., better known as Bus Palm.

Circleville's newest food establishment is located on the corner of the Stoutsville and Lancaster Pikes. Its first floor area encompasses 1,800 square feet.

The restaurant and drive-in will serve breakfast, a businessman's lunch and evening meals featuring "char-bro" steaks prepared in a new type of infra-red machine with a heating ability of 2,000 degrees.

All food preparing equipment will be automatic and modern with two broasting machines for chicken, pork chops and all fish items. Another specialty will be barbecue ribs.

THE FOOD EMPORIUM will have curb service for approximately 50 automobiles and a dining area inside for 60 persons. A parking area will be available for customers eating inside.

The restaurant and drive-in will employ 23 persons and will be managed by Guenther. The curb service area and parking lot will be blacktopped in the near future.

Palm's will be open from 7 a. m. until midnight to accommodate all early and late customers. It also will feature carry-out items.

The establishment is located on 14 acres. Its construction was contracted by Guenther. The building is air-conditioned and has basement facilities for a private dining area to be opened later.

U.S. Business Profits Holding Up Very Well

Two-Thirds of Firms Report Net Is Ahead Of '59 First Quarter

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The backbone of American business — profits — is holding up well in spite of some painful spots. The aching parts tend to get the most attention — particularly when a turn in the economy is feared by a few.

But of 300 corporations already reporting their net income after taxes in the first quarter of their fiscal year, two-thirds show profit ahead of the year before. The average for the 300 is a gain of 7 per cent. Reporting a net loss are 20 companies, compared with 23 in the like 1959 period.

But the averages don't tell the story. The reports are thoroughly scrambled this time. Some industries are still riding the crest of the boom. Others are battling their own recessions. And some got their figures in just before the slide became pronounced.

Within industries the results are often highly mixed. Some companies report record earnings while others show declines. For the onlooker the situation may be even more confusing because so many firms have gone in for diversification. One line may be pulling their consolidated reports down, or another with little relation to their main business may be saving them from the slowdown besetting their rivals in the industry.

This situation of simultaneous feast and famine is a familiar one by now. Ever since World War II, the main economic cycle, whether up or down, has had its notable exceptions.

Right now, on available figures for the first three months of the year, the profit average is still up — although rising at a much slower pace than a year ago.

But 98 of the 300 companies report declines. And a number of the fortunate 202 who are still ahead admit that their order books indicate the April-May-June results may be less pleasing.

Steel is an example. With the two largest companies yet to report, those already heard from show 17 out of 20 ahead of last year for an average advance of 16 per cent.

Nonferrous metal companies are less fortunate. Declines by two of the big copper companies brought the average for eight reporting firms down by 11 per cent, although the six others were ahead of last year.

Only one of the Big Three automakers has reported. But its gains were enough to pull the total for 13 in the motors and suppliers industry up 5 per cent, although eight of them were showing declines.

Chemical companies are on the upside, in spite of a bobble by the biggest producer. Eighteen companies are running ahead of a year ago out of the 24 reporting, for an average gain of 4 per cent.

Eight drug companies with but one exception are ahead. The average gain is 16 per cent.

The next three or four weeks will see the majority of corporate returns released. And the percentages will change from day to day. But the final result still seems likely to be a slight gain overall.

Miller's Rise to Political Power In Cleveland Was Long, Arduous

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ray T. Miller Sr. has a strong will. Men of that mold seldom brook opposition, and Miller is no exception. As chairman of the Democratic party in Cuyahoga County he has fought many a political battle, often with members of his own party. He has made his share of enemies, including some who have been his friends.

Through it all he has clung doggedly to the principle of discipline — the discipline that springs from loyalty. He gives loyalty and expects it in return. And he wants no interference with the discipline he exerts on the banks of the Cuyahoga.

These observations are the key to an understanding of the current fight between Miller and Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. Nominally it is over the choice of delegates to the national party convention, all of whom will be in favor of U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Actually, Miller wants to keep his grip on the Democratic organization here, regardless of what the Ohio party leaders want. He is boss in his own ballroom and intends to keep on being boss.

But he is far different from the stereotyped notion conveyed by the words "political boss." The popular conception of a political boss is a man who represents the vested interests and manipulates office-holders so he can obtain lush contracts for whatever commercial companies he may own.

But Miller, who has grown wealthy in the practice of law, shuns cases involving the city or county and prides himself on "never asking anything from them." For years his clients have included labor organizations, including two of the largest railroad brotherhoods. From the very beginning, he has paid close attention to the political hopes and desires of Cleveland's many-tongued cosmopolitan population.

Before he became a lawyer by vocation and political chairman by avocation, he had a career in which he might have been called "Battling Miller."

It began at Notre Dame. A De-fiance, Ohio, boy who was born in 1895, he waited on tables and did janitor work to earn his way through college. He was one of five brothers who played football there—his brother Don became one of the famous "Four Horsemen"—and as a six-foot, 145-pound end had a fight on his hands to get into the lineup. He played one or two periods a game as a second stringer behind a young man named Knute Rockne.

Then came an interval of chasing Pancho Villa with the American forces in Mexico, and a postlude of searching for Mexican gold.

When World War I came, he was in the thick of it. He went to France as a lieutenant, participated in most of the major offensives, and won his captaincy in the Meuse-Argonne.

Sitting now in his comfortable, but not pretentious, law office, with close cropped gray hair and rugged, muscle-lined features, he said "I remember those days well." He likes to tell of the time an artillery shell killed four men and wounded several others, a minute after he had left the scene to work his way back up to the foxholes of a hill position at the front.

As a young lawyer in post-war Cleveland he ran for prosecutor and made it on the third try, in 1928, as the only Democrat in the Courthouse. Almost immediately a series of bribe scandals broke at City Hall and when the young prosecutor was not busy with this mess, there were gangster trials and other excitements. He won re-election in 1930, helped his party upset the city manager form of government and as a courageous crusader became the party's logical candidate for mayor in 1932. He beat former city manager Daniel Morgan and the minute he got into office, had every depression problem dumped into his lap.

He had a mountainous problem of bread lines and relief. He cut expenses by weeding out City Hall. Out went two Republicans and in went one Democrat. But his own party suffered from splits and he was defeated in the mayoralty race of 1933—and again in 1935. He "retired" and started building up his law practice. Now he looks back on that first career as one of his most satisfying experiences.

It was in 1938 that he began the fight to take over party control from the late W. B. Gongwer. It was in 1941 that one of his proteges, Frank J. Lausche, was swept into office as mayor.

"Labor came to me and asked assurances that Lausche would not re-appoint Eliot Ness as safety director," he says now. "I told them to go to Lausche, but they wanted my word. Lausche gave me his word in this very office, and I gave it to labor. But he broke his word. I did the only thing I could. I broke with Lausche, publicly."

They have been at odds ever since. Miller even made an unsuccessful race against Lausche in the gubernatorial primary of 1948. He admits now that he did not think the Democrats could win that year, but Lausche gained the governor's chair for the second time as Harry S. Truman beat Thomas E. Dewey.

Another Miller protege was Thomas A. Burke, who became mayor and finally, by appointment of Lausche, a United States senator. But in Miller's code, Burke became too independent and the coolness between them has intensified. Now Burke is on DiSalle's slate of candidates for delegate.

Through the years the Miller organization has maintained a tight grip on the county Courthouse. It always has maintained at least a truce with City Hall. It was against Anthony Celebrezze when he was elected mayor, later became neutral, and endorsed him the last time he was re-elected.

And Miller has guided very adroitly the county's representation in the state Legislature. It is significant that he wants to hold it together as a unit, regardless of what the state administration has in mind.

That is at the root of his fight with DiSalle. It began right after DiSalle's election. The Cuyahoga delegation has a lot of weight in the state Capitol. Miller thought he had a go-ahead from DiSalle to put James J. McGettrick of Rocky River into the speaker's chair of the House. He soon found that DiSalle's own choices were being named leaders of both the House and the Senate. That started the fight.

When it came time to select delegates to this year's national convention, Miller submitted to the state organization a list of his own choosing. He contends that by rule and protocol, Cuyahoga County should have a major share of the delegation. To be selected by Miller, of course. But DiSalle did not go along.

"He denied us home rule," says Miller with darkening eyes and tightening jaw. "He refused his consent because we did not pledge our support to him."

So Miller put up his own slate for Cuyahoga County and some of the downstate districts. If all are elected they will have 29 votes. The state organization has entered a complete slate for a total of 64 votes, competing with Miller in his home county. The DiSalle people are pledged to the governor as a favorite son, but will vote for Kennedy. The Miller forces are pledged nominally to County Engineer Albert S. Porter, but will vote for Kennedy.

Miller expects to be elected a delegate on May 3. He attended his first national convention in 1932, missed the 1936 conclave when he was in political "retirement," and has been at all the rest, often as chairman of the delegation.

For a man in his mid-sixties, he is remarkably sharp. Busy as he always is, he raises flowers on the grounds of his home in Shaker Heights. He has not forgotten football. He helped organize the Cleveland Browns and was the attorney for the old All-America Conference, the first league they played in. He remains a gridiron fan.

Where lies his pride? In his family of two daughters and three sons, including Ray Jr., who already is launched on a political career of his own.

And there is pride in his political leadership, as he tells of this year's selection of Democratic candidates for the local and legislative races. In a county of his size, there always are far more willing prospects than available offices. Miller and his scanning committee decide whom the organization will sponsor in each race. Then the names go before the county executive committee.

"This committee is one of the most remarkable bodies in the nation," explains Miller. "There are more than 450 at the meeting. They represent every ward, every club, every cosmopolitan group. You'll find every sort of conflicting interest in their makeup."

Then he snaps out the proud clincher.

"They approved our choices unanimously."

The DiSalle people are pledged to the governor as a favorite son, but will vote for Kennedy. The Miller forces are pledged nominally to County Engineer Albert S. Porter, but will vote for Kennedy.

Miller expects to be elected a delegate on May 3. He attended his first national convention in 1932, missed the 1936 conclave when he was in political "retirement," and has been at all the rest, often as chairman of the delegation.

For a man in his mid-sixties, he is remarkably sharp. Busy as he always is, he raises flowers on the grounds of his home in Shaker Heights. He has not forgotten football. He helped organize the Cleveland Browns and was the attorney for the old All-America Conference, the first league they played in. He remains a gridiron fan.

Where lies his pride? In his family of two daughters and three sons, including Ray Jr., who already is launched on a political career of his own.

And there is pride in his political leadership, as he tells of this year's selection of Democratic candidates for the local and legislative races. In a county of his size, there always are far more willing prospects than available offices. Miller and his scanning committee decide whom the organization will sponsor in each race. Then the names go before the county executive committee.

"This committee is one of the most remarkable bodies in the nation," explains Miller. "There are more than 450 at the meeting. They represent every ward, every club, every cosmopolitan group. You'll find every sort of conflicting interest in their makeup."

Then he snaps out the proud clincher:

"They approved our choices unanimously."

Greer Garson Gets To Play Mrs. FDR in Newest Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mrs. Miniver, Mrs. Chips, Madame Curie, Caesar's wife, Mrs. Parkington, and now it's Mrs. Roosevelt for Greer Garson.

"They're always thinking of me as Mrs. Somebody or other," says the actress, who is actually Mrs. Buddy Fogelson.

In a controversial bit of casting — "the column reaction has either been that it is wonderful or that it is awful" — Miss Garson has signed to play Eleanor Roosevelt in Dore Schary's filming of his hit play, "Sunrise at Campobello."

They were just starting the picture out at Warner Brothers. There were Franklin D. Roosevelt, played with awesome fidelity by Ralph Bellamy, his wife Eleanor and the five Roosevelt children on the porch of their summer home on Campobello Island, N. B.

Miss Garson was darning the children's clothes. She seemed not as tall as Mrs. Fdr, nor was there much facial resemblance. But with the aid of a blonde wig, the actress managed to create an illusion that comes down from early photos of Mrs. Roosevelt.

"I'm not in any way trying to make a music-hall imitation of Mrs. Roosevelt," said the actress in her dressing room. "I am just trying to convey the impression of a very remarkable woman."

"I am playing her at a time when she was intensely devoted to her family. It was not until later that she went into public life — to act as the eyes for her husband."

"I am sure that she was the major influence in getting her husband to return to politics instead of retiring into a wheel chair at Hyde Park to pore over his stamp collection and first editions, as his mother and many of his friends wanted him to."

On the wall of the dressing room was a photo of herself and Mrs. Fdr when they spoke at a New York Herald-Tribune forum. "I met her several times during the war and after," said Miss Garson.

English-born, she hedged on whether she shared Mrs. Roosevelt's political persuasion, but did comment: "I've only been able to vote in the last two elections, because I am newly a citizen. Each time, I hurried home to Dallas to vote for Mr. Eisenhower, because I felt he was the right man for the job."

Income Tax Revision Effort

President Rudolph F. Bannow of the National Assn. of Manufacturers makes a point which, if heeded, might jar loose the key log in the jam on federal income tax revision.

Rep. A. S. Herlong, Florida Democrat, and Rep. Howard H. Baker, Tennessee Republican, have been beating the drums for a bill to reduce federal income tax rates gradually over a five-year period. The present top bracket of 91 per cent, which is confiscatory, would be eased down to 4 per cent, and the present minimum of 20 per cent would be pared to 15 per cent. There would be a revision of rates between these two extremes. Corporation taxes, too, would drop slightly — from 52 per cent to 47 per cent.

Bannow contends the present income tax rates are hurting the worker more than anyone else. They slow the accumulation of funds for capital investment. As capital investment slows down, jobs become fewer. It now takes $16,000 of capital to create one industrial job. More capital accumulation will keep workers busier.

Government authorities fear to loosen their grip on present rates lest lower rates fail to raise enough money for the budget. But income tax reductions traditionally bring in more revenue through business stimulation.

If organized labor becomes convinced that Bannow is right — that lower income tax rates will provide more jobs, then labor-management cooperation may assure such revision. It would be refreshing to see the two join hands in an achievement that would be of advantage to both and to the nation generally.

A Plan for More Doctors

Northwestern University's medical school, now 100 years old, has decided upon a new curriculum for the school year beginning in 1961. Medical training will be streamlined, reducing to six years the time it takes between high school graduation and the award of an M. D. degree. Seven to eight years is now required.

If there is no loss of knowledge and skills acquired by the future doctor during his college career, this may be part of the answer to the call for more doctors.

Population projections, compared to the rate of medical school graduations, have been suggesting that the country soon may lack enough doctors to tend the sick. More and bigger medical schools have been advocated along with relaxation of present rules for admission of foreign trained doctors to American practice.

The Northwestern idea of graduating doctors one or two years sooner may be a contribution toward solving the shortage. Whether it will be enough of a contribution is doubtful.

Doctors To Wear Lipstick

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.

In the future more American physicians will wear lipstick. The old public prejudice against lady doctors is abating. Last year about 5 per cent of our medical school graduates were women.

Here's an item that surprised me: The word "smile" does not appear in the King James Bible.

Can you name the only four-footed animal unable to take all four feet off the ground at the same time? It is the elephant.

Three out of every four automobiles in the world today are in the United States. And so are five out of every six of the world's backseat drivers.

Religion and the Candidates

In a recent column, I proposed a statement to be agreed upon by Senator John Kennedy and Senator Hubert Humphrey. The statement read:

"We, John Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey, contesting for the Democratic nomination for President, without hatred or envy, request Democrats to choose between us on the basis of our records in the United States Senate and our integrity and fitness to be President and not on the form of our ritual and church discipline."

Senator Hubert Humphrey chose to reply by telegram as follows:

"Congratulations to your column of April 14 I thoroughly agree with you that Democrats should choose between Senator Kennedy and myself strictly on the basis of our records and our integrity and fitness to be president."

I said this on a nationwide television show, College News Conference, Sunday, April 10. Quote. I am going to do everything within my power to put this primary and any other primary, not on the basis of religion but on the basis of the economic, political and social issue. All of my life I have fought any form of intolerance and bigotry. This is a mission in my life. This isn't just a political expression. . . . If anybody thinks they are going to use Hubert Humphrey as a rallying point for anti-Catholicism, they are wrong. Because I am convinced that any man who is seeking the Presidency of the United States on either ticket today would serve that office with independence, within his constitutional responsibilities. A man's religion is his own most intimate private choice and we must respect that religious choice. And as far as I am concerned I don't think a man ought to be voted for because of his religion and I don't think he ought to be voted against because of his religion. Unquote.

"I am perfectly willing to join Senator Kennedy in any similar joint statement."

Hubert H. Humphrey

Senator John Kennedy telephoned that of course he concurred in any statement that Americans should not vote for or against a man because of his religion.

The reason that I think the subject is important is because of the enormous mail I receive from readers and the vast amount of printed matter, some representing fine intelligence; others the spewings of hate.

In this country, we have no secondary citizens and no matter what efforts are made by this or that group, the Fifth and the Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution forbid secondary citizenship. Let those who desire to establish secondary citizenship agitate for a constitutional amendment and if the American people favor such a concept, they will vote for it. If an American citizen because of his religious affiliations may not hold any public office, then a religious test has been established.

How far shall we go in religious tests? We start by saying that no Roman Catholic may be President. But many of those who object to John Kennedy for President because he is a Roman Catholic favor him for Vice President. In fact there is an agitation to nominate Governor Pat Brown of California or Mayor Robert Wagner of New York City, both Roman Catholics, for Vice President on the Democratic ticket, and James Mitchell, Secretary of Labor, for Vice President on the Republican ticket.

Then if the President died or became incapacitated, the Vice President would become President in accordance with the Constitution. Surely if a Roman Catholic is unworthy per se to be President, he is similarly unworthy to be Vice President.

But what about a Jew? No Jew has ever run for President or Vice President. However, Senator Barry Goldwater had Jewish grandparents. The story is told that once upon a time Senator Goldwater wanted to join a restricted golf club and when he was rejected, he asked if he could play nine holes instead of 18, as he was half an Episcopalian.

I receive considerable mail which favors Senator Barry Goldwater for Vice President. He is a

Nelson Rockefeller has lined up what looks like a presidential nomination speech trip. He wants the convention to know that if it runs out of enlisteries, he's subject to selective service.

Rockefeller's speech trip comes at a time when the Nixon bandwagon looks short on steam. If Nixon isn't A-1, Rockefeller wants it known that he, himself, is at least I-A.

Last winter the Republican party stalwarts blew cold on Rockefeller's candidacy. Politics makes strange bed fellows.

A lot of Nixon's advisers think it's time for him to start campaigning. Figure what started out to be a walk now requires running.

To The Editor:

"This school bond issue is getting out of hand. Big write-ups in our local paper, pictures and reports on TV and every few days the children bringing home more literature from school.

"If school system is so badly in need of money cut out this extra expense of printing, etc.

"The voters passed a bond issue recently, which boasted our real estate taxes a great deal and they want another bond issue voted in to really raise our taxes. Pass this bond issue and then along will come another one.

"I can see the headlines now 'New Bond Issue Must Be Passed or New Schools Can Not Open.' It will have to come, so don't be fooled.

"Have the members of the Board of Education taken time to inquire of the taxpayers how they feel about more taxes. I don't mean have they talked to the so-called high society set who would mortgage their soul in order to put on a front and play 'big shot.' I mean the taxpayers who are fine honest people that live within their incomes.

"Have they thought about the people who are retired and live on a fixed income. Do they realize the hardship that will be inflicted there if taxes continue to go up on the home they have worked and labored so many years to achieve.

"To you who pay rent — your landlord is going to have to raise your rent if he is to realize a satisfactory profit. Then, too, some day you're going to want to own your own home and whether you can afford to pay high real estate taxes besides the insurance and mortgage payment will be an important factor.

"I want my children to have a good education but there is such a thing as 'taxing them out of an education.' Everyone knows cost of living is at an all time high and if we are to feed and clothe our families properly we can't stand more and more expenses.

If we have to take the money that is now going for necessities and pay higher taxes the children won't have the proper food and clothing to keep them in school.

"Cut out the kindergartens and cafeterias if money is needed so badly. Kindergarten training isn't a 'must.' There are some who carry their lunch from home. Let the others do too.

If they're 'too good' to carry a lunch bucket there are restaurants and snack bars close.

"I'm really getting 'fed up' with all of this business that we have to vote for this bond issue. This isn't Russia and no one has a right to tell me I can vote or must vote.

"The school system we have now needs a good shaking up. Getting rid of teachers who are there only to draw their pay, those who have been in for years and years and being kept only because those with power to get rid of them haven't got the 'guts' to fire them and the teachers who favor the ones who pretend to be 'Mr. or Miss Ritzy' but don't even own clothes on their back makes for a bad set-up.

"Come on Voters! Get to the polls. 'Vote No!'

"Don't let someone scare you into something you know you can't afford. Other school boards have predicted dire results if an issue didn't pass, but they didn't pass and they're still having school and meeting requirements.

"Don't let a few put you in over your heads. We'll have school even if issue doesn't go through, and it will be just as good, as schooling we've had in past.

"Teaching profession is wonderful but there are those who think because they teach, the world owes them a living and want someone to feel sorry for them, because of their trials and troubles with teaching.

"Everyone who works, and yes the Mother at home, has great problems in everything they do so teachers are no better than the rest. I don't mean all teachers are that way. I know some mighty fine teachers and am glad some of my children have had the opportunity to learn from them.

"It boils down to the one thing—we can't afford all these new schools and the people who are trying to cram this down our throats should have many sleepless nights, to ponder over it and ask themselves—what about higher taxes? Will it inflict hardships and how are the people going to pay it?

"They better get down on their knees and ask the Good Lord to forgive them."

Anirate Taxpayer

Dear Sir:

"It has been stated that Ohio pays $5.3 billion in federal taxes and receives back in 'federal aid' less than $3 billion.

"For this reason alone, isn't it wiser to tax ourselves to support our own schools and receive full value for our tax dollar?

"If we fail to act and to provide adequate educational facilities most surely the federal government will, sooner or later. If federal aid comes, undoubtedly local control will go.

"Take it from a farm family — federal control is not desirable."

Sincerely,
Mrs. William L. Hoover

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's a peculiar presidential race.

None of the Democrats is dominant. Their contest is a little balled-up, getting out of focus on religion. Vice President Richard M. Nixon has the Republican nomination almost sewed up but won't stick his neck out on issues — yet.

Adlai E. Stevenson denies he is a candidate but keeps making speeches and apparently would be glad to get the bid.

His supporters have a handy alibi for the fact he is a two-time presidential loser — that no Democrat could have beaten Dwight D. Eisenhower, war hero, in 1942 or 1956. That's strictly a guess. Some other Democrat might have.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas perpetuates the myth he is not a candidate but he is busy campaigning. He may go to the convention with the biggest bloc of delegates. Yet, at this moment, he looks far from a cinch.

He has Southern and Western support. Labor and Negroes in the big cities are said to be dim on him. Still, he is an extremely able Senate leader and more than anyone got through the first two civil rights bills in the 1960s. Since he had such a big Democratic majority, it can be argued he should have produced far tougher civil rights bills. But he would have lost Southern support, and Johnson is a politician.

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, a successful businessman with a liberal voting record, seems to have his best chance in the negative—as a compromise if the Democratic convention deadlocks on the other candidates.

They there's W. E. Hubert H.

Humphrey of Minnesota, who was given the least chance by observers but keeps running in the primaries as if they were a gymnasium.

His voting record is just about 100 per cent pro-labor but, ironically, organized labor has refrained from endorsing him. Labor leaders may have decided he cannot win.

Strangest race of all is that of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, a Roman Catholic. Before he even started campaigning, his religion was an issue: Would voters elect a Catholic president?

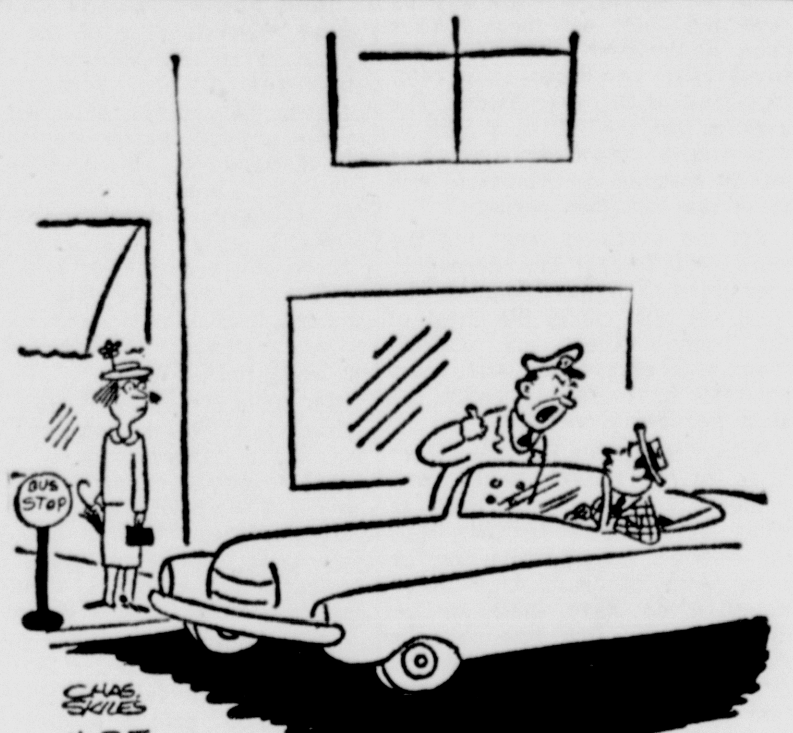

This past week Kennedy himself brought the issue of his religion out in the open, insisting it should not be an issue at all.

He faces a major test — with religion as one of the issues — in the May 10 preferential primary in strongly Protestant West Virginia. But even if Humphrey defeats Kennedy there, that would not prove the contention some are making that no Catholic can be nominated.

Any such assumption would be grossly unfair to Humphrey. It would be based on the idea Kennedy lost because he was a Catholic and not at all because West Virginians liked Humphrey better.

Nixon, under President Eisenhower's wing, can't say — or seems to think he can't say — much on his own that is new or different from his boss until he gets the nomination.

"Congratulations to your column of April 14. I thoroughly agree with you that Democrats should choose between Senator Kennedy and myself strictly on the basis of our records and our integrity and fitness to be president."

"I said this on a nationwide television show, College News Conference, Sunday, April 10. Quote. I am going to do everything within my power to put this primary and any other primary, not on the basis of religion but on the basis of the economic, political and social issue. All of my life I have fought any form of intolerance and bigotry. This is a mission in my life. This isn't just a political expression. . . If anybody thinks they are going to use Hubert Humphrey as a rallying point for anti-Catholicism, they are wrong. Because I am convinced that any man who is seeking the Presidency of the United States on either ticket today would serve that office with independence, within his constitutional responsibilities. A man's religion is his own most intimate private choice and we must respect that religious choice. And as far as I am concerned I don't think a man ought to be voted for because of his religion and I don't think he ought to be voted against because of his religion. Unquote.

Government authorities fear to loosen their grip on present rates lest lower rates fail to raise enough money for the budget. But income tax reductions traditionally bring in more revenue through business stimulation.

If organized labor becomes convinced that Bannow is right — that lower income tax rates will provide more jobs, then labor-management cooperation may assure such revision. It would be refreshing to see the two join hands in an achievement that would be of advantage to both and to the nation generally.

The Northwestern idea of graduating doctors one or two years sooner may be a contribution toward solving the shortage. Whether it will be enough of a contribution is doubtful.

"I am perfectly willing to join Senator Kennedy in any similar joint statement."

Hubert H. Humphrey

Senator John Kennedy telephoned that of course he concurred in any statement that Americans should not vote for or against a man because of his religion.

The reason that I think the subject is important is because of the enormous mail I receive from readers and the vast amount of printed matter, some representing fine intelligence, others the spewings of hate.

In this country, we have no secondary citizens and no matter what efforts are made by this or that group, the Fifth and the Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution forbid secondary citizenship. Let those who desire to establish secondary citizenship agitate for a constitutional amendment and if the American people favor such a concept, they will vote for it. If an American citizen because of his religious affiliations may not hold any public office, then a religious test has been established.

How far shall we go in religious tests? We start by saying that no Roman Catholic may be President. But many of those who object to John Kennedy for President because he is a Roman Catholic favor him for Vice President. In fact there is an agitation to nominate Governor Pat Brown of California or Mayor Robert Wagner of New York City, both Roman Catholics, for Vice President on the Democratic ticket, and James Mitchell, Secretary of Labor, for Vice President on the Republican ticket.

Then if the President died or became incapacitated, the Vice President would become President in accordance with the Constitution. Surely if a Roman Catholic is unworthy per se to be President, he is similarly unworthy to be Vice President.

But what about a Jew? No Jew has ever run for President or Vice President. However, Senator Barry Goldwater had Jewish grandparents. The story is told that once upon a time Senator Goldwater wanted to join a restricted golf club and when he was rejected, he asked if he could play nine holes instead of 18, as he was half an Episcopalian.

I receive considerable mail which favors Senator Barry Goldwater for Vice President. He is a conservative, an anti-Communist, a constitutionalist, a brilliant defender of the American life. He would make just the right kind of a Vice President, less glib than Governor Nelson Rockefeller and more representative of constructive American thinking than most men in public life. Is he a secondary citizen because he is half a Jew and half an Episcopalian?

How ridiculous can this discussion become? One is ashamed to think that it could arise in the year 1960.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Herald welcomes expressions of opinions from its readers on subjects of general interest through letters to the editor. To The Editor:

"This school bond issue is getting out of hand. Big write-ups in our local paper, pictures and reports on TV and every few days the children bringing home more literature from school.

"If school system is so badly in need of money cut out this extra expense of printing, etc.

"The voters passed a bond issue recently, which boasted our real estate taxes a great deal and now they want another bond issue voted in to really raise our taxes. Pass this bond issue and then along will come another one.

"I can see the headlines now 'New Bond Issue Must Be Passed or New Schools Can Not Open.' It will have to come, so don't be fooled.

"Have the members of the Board of Education taken time to inquire of the taxpayers how they feel about more taxes? I don't mean have they talked to the so-called high society set who would mortgage their soul in order to put on a front and play 'big-shot.' I mean the taxpayers who are fine-honest people that live within their incomes.

"Have they thought about the people who are retired and live on a fixed income. Do they realize the hardship that will be inflicted there if taxes continue to go up on the home they have worked and labored so many years to achieve.

"To you who pay rent — your landlord is going to have to raise your rent if he is to realize a satisfactory profit. Then, too, someday you're going to want to own your own home and whether you can afford to pay high real estate taxes besides the insurance and mortgage payment will be an important factor.

"I want my children to have a good education but there is such a thing as 'taxing them out of an education.' Everyone knows cost of living is at an all time high and if we are to feed and clothe our families properly we can't stand more and more expenses.

If we have to take the money that is now going for necessities and pay higher taxes the children won't have the proper food and clothing to keep them in school.

"Cut out the kindergartens and cafeterias if money is needed so badly. Kindergarten training isn't a 'must.' There are some who carry their lunch from home. Let the others do it.

If they're 'too good' to carry a lunch bucket there are restaurants and snack bars close.

"I'm really getting 'fed up' with all of this business that we have to vote for this bond issue. This isn't Russia and no one has a right to tell me how I can vote or must vote.

"The school system we have now needs a good shaking up. Getting rid of teachers who are there

Nelson Rockefeller has lined up what looks like a presidential nomination speech trip. He wants the convention to know that if it runs out of enlistees, he's subject to selective service.

Rockefeller's speech trip comes at a time when the Nixon bandwagon looks short on steam. If Nixon isn't A-1, Rockefeller wants it known that he, himself, is at least I-A.

Last winter the Republican party stalwarts blew cold on Rockefeller's candidacy. Politics makes strange - fed fellows.

A lot of Nixon's advisers think it's time for him to start campaigning. They figure what started out to be a walk now requires running.

We'll all get our fill of politics by election time. And half the politicians will get their fill of us.

The South Koreans rose up in wrath over the recent election. Now President Singman Rhee knows he can't call his Seoul his own.

Washington has decided the Cuban government verges on one-man rule. Anyone who talks as long as Castro can't be calling for a vote.

Maple Festival Ends

CHARDON Ohio (AP) — The three-day Geauga County Maple Festival drew an estimated 75,000 persons with a crowd of 50,000 reported Sunday. Sale of syrup and pancakes at concession stands was reported "very good."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's a peculiar presidential race.

None of the Democrats is dominant. Their contest is a little balled-up, getting out of focus on religion. Vice President Richard M. Nixon has the Republican nomination almost sewed up but won't stick his neck out on issues — yet.

Adlai E. Stevenson denies he is a candidate but keeps making speeches and apparently would be glad to get the bid.

His supporters have a handy alibi for the fact he is a two-time presidential loser — that no Democrat could have beaten Dwight D. Eisenhower, war hero, in 1942 or 1956. That's strictly a guess. Some other Democrat might have.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas perpetuates the myth he is not a candidate but he is busy campaigning. He may go to the convention with the biggest bloc of delegates. Yet, at this moment, he looks far from a cinch.

He has Southern and Western support. Labor and Negroes in the big cities are said to be dim on him. Still, he is an extremely able Senate leader and more than anyone got through the first two civil rights bills in the 1960s. Since he had such a big Democratic majority, it can be argued he should have produced far tougher civil rights bills. But he would have lost Southern support, and Johnson is a politician.

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, a successful businessman with a liberal voting record, seems to have his best chance in the negative—as a compromise if the Democratic convention deadlocks on the other candidates.

His voting record is just about 100 per cent pro-labor but, ironically, organized labor has refrained from endorsing him. Labor leaders may have decided he cannot win.

Strangest race of all is that of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, a Roman Catholic. Before he even started campaigning, his religion was an issue: Would voters elect a Catholic president?

This past week Kennedy himself brought the issue of his religion out in the open, insisting it should not be an issue at all.

He faces a major test — with religion as one of the issues — in the May 10 preferential primary in strongly Protestant West Virginia. But even if Humphrey defeats Kennedy there, that would not prove the contention some are making that no Catholic can be nominated.

Any such assumption would be grossly unfair to Humphrey. It would be based on the idea Kennedy lost because he was a Catholic and not at all because West Virginians liked Humphrey better.

Nixon, under President Eisenhower's wing, can't say — or seems to think he can't say — much on his own that is new or different from his boss until he gets the nomination.

Indications Grow Stronger 1960 Business To Be Good

NEW YORK (AP) — Business is moving steadily ahead with indications growing stronger that 1960 will be a good, but not a boom, year.

First quarter earnings reports poured out of corporations' annual meetings and their results showed a mixed pattern.

There were a lot of new sales and earnings records. And there were a lot of declines, too.

Ford Motor Co., for instance, set a first quarter record with earnings of 143 million dollars. Chrysler Corp. announced it was definitely in the black.

Union Carbide Corp. also had record earnings for the quarter but its president, Morse G. Dial, said:

"There is every evidence that the economy is in a leveling out stage. I certainly think I can say 1960 won't be a boom year."

Another business leader, Henry C. Alexander, chairman of Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, the nation's fifth largest commercial bank, had this to say:

"I expect business to stay good for some time to come. We are not about to enter into any sharp recession. On the other hand, we are not about to launch a boom on top of the expansion we've had since the summer of 1958."

Among companies reporting earnings declines were American Airlines, B. F. Goodrich Co., U.S. Rubber Co., Du Pont Co. and Douglas Aircraft.

Wall Street kept its ear tuned to the corporate meetings and reacted swiftly to the good and poor reports. The stock market took its worst dive in seven weeks when American Telephone & Telegraph Co. announced it was not increasing its dividend and that earnings for the year probably would be about the same as last year. The market steadied later in the week.

Sales on the New York Exchange were 14,969,137 shares compared with 10,451,000 the week before and 17,788,350 a year ago.

Other developments indicated the economy was moving along at a steady gait.

Automobile production rose nine per cent over last week to an estimated 147,000 cars on the strength of continued improvement in sales.

Steel output advanced to an estimated 80.9 per cent of capacity from last week's 78.1. However, inventory-building was about completed.

The President's Council of Economic Advisors reported the gross national product — total value of goods and services produced in the economy — hit a record annual rate of 498 billion dollars in the first quarter. This was an increase of 14 1/2 billion dollars over the last quarter of 1959.

Another record annual rate was achieved in total income of individual Americans for March. The rate, helped by the hiring of 170,000 census workers, climbed to 393 1/2 billion dollars, a gain of 500 million over February.

Cincy May Festival To Get Downtown Ad

CINCINNATI (AP) — Officials of Cincinnati's May Festival a series of concerts every other year featuring choral music have figured a way to tell Cincinnatians the newest edition is at hand. A downtown film which plays recorded music through loudspeakers at noon has agreed to put on five minutes of chimes performances of music themes from this year's works starting today. The festival opens the first week in May.

Conneaut Hails First Seaway Ship of Year
CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — The Oakwood brought a cargo of iron ore Sunday the first seaway shipment of the season to arrive at Conneaut. The vessel carried 7,014 tons of Venezuelan ore which had been destined for Philadelphia last fall. Because of the longshoremen's strike the ore was unloaded instead at Contrecoeur Que. and reshipped here.

The directors said a committee appointed by the board recently had conducted a study of the relationship between The AP and the broadcasting industry and had found the relationship both valuable and mutually profitable. The committee called for a further strengthening of ties between the association and its broadcasting members.

The directors said their report was not dwelling at length on details of the past year's operation noting that a report already had been sent to members by General Manager Frank J. Starzel.

But they said The AP "record of accomplishment around the world which was written in the past 12 months would have been incredible to the group which met in New York in 1960 to organize The Associated Press as we know it."

Ohio Employment Declines In Most Areas during March

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation Saturday presented its monthly picture of the state's economy, pointing up a March employment decline in every major durable-goods industry except non-electrical machinery.

Non-agricultural employment in the state declined 2 of one per cent from February, to 3,110,000 in March, the bureau's statistical report said. The drop was in manufacturing, in which most durable goods industries registered losses. Other findings in the report:

Non-manufacturing was stable as seasonal gains in transportation and service industries offset a decline in contract construction occasioned by unusually cold weather.

The average weekly earnings of factory production workers in Ohio decreased $1 from February, to $104.63 in March, as the workweek declined 2 hours to 40.3.

Factories in Ohio employed 1,306,000 in March—a loss of 5 per cent from February. Losses resulting from reduced demand were reported by producers of motor vehicles, as well as those in hardware, metal stampings, electrical motors and primary metals supplying the auto industry. Several makers of metalworking machinery, however, reported increased orders and higher employment levels. Non-durable goods increased moderately, as labor-management disputes in tire and beverage industries ended.

Employment in Ohio non-manufacturing establishments, at 1,804,000 in March, was unchanged from February. For the first time since 1944, contractors employed fewer workers in March than in February, as Ohio experienced some of the coldest weather of the winter. Service industries and Great Lakes shipping rose seasonally, counterbalancing the construction decline.

In durable-goods industries, fewer hours and lower earnings were reported by producers of transportation equipment, furniture, electrical machinery, primary metals, and fabricated metals. Although moderate declines occurred among makers of paper and rubber products, non-durable goods firms generally reported stable hours and earnings.

Non-agricultural employment in Ohio was 2.2 per cent higher in March of this year than a year earlier. Factory employment was up 3.1 per cent over the year, and non-manufacturing rose 1.6 per cent. Average weekly earnings of factory production workers were up $2.50 from March of 1959, although the work week was down 2 hours. The increase in weekly earnings reflected an eight-cent gain in average hourly earnings.

Only leather workers failed to share in the rise, their hourly earnings remaining unchanged over the year. Greatest increases were given workers in the chemical, fabricated metals, and printing industries.

News Cooperative Hails Its Role in Aiding Free Press

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of The Associated Press marked the 60th year of the news cooperative today by hailing its contribution "to a free press in a free world."

"The thriving existence of The Associated Press guarantees that the public will have access to honest news, free of bias, free of domination by political or economic groups and free of taint from selfish interests," they said in their annual report.

The report, read at The AP annual meeting, said The AP developed significantly in the past six decades without changing its basic principles.

"Now, as in 1900, The Associated Press is controlled by those it serves," the report said. "It makes no profits and declares no dividends. It is subject to the dictation of no individual or group. Its purpose of objective, unbiased reporting is assured by the wide divergence of personal views held by those who make up the membership."

The report noted these contrasts in the 1900 scene as compared with 1960:

"McKinley stayed within the boundaries of the United States while in office, as every president before him. . . . An average of six newsmen, representing the entire press of the world, covered the daily activities of the president; there were no news conferences and reporters had no access to the White House. . . . Ohio Employment Declines In Most Areas during March

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation Saturday presented its monthly picture of the state's economy, pointing up a March employment decline in every major durable-goods industry except non-electrical machinery.

Non-agricultural employment in the state declined 2 of one per cent from February, to 3,110,000 in March, the bureau's statistical report said. The drop was in manufacturing, in which most durable-goods industries registered losses.

Other findings in the report:

Non-manufacturing was stable, as seasonal gains in transportation and service industries offset a decline in contract construction occasioned by unusually cold weather.

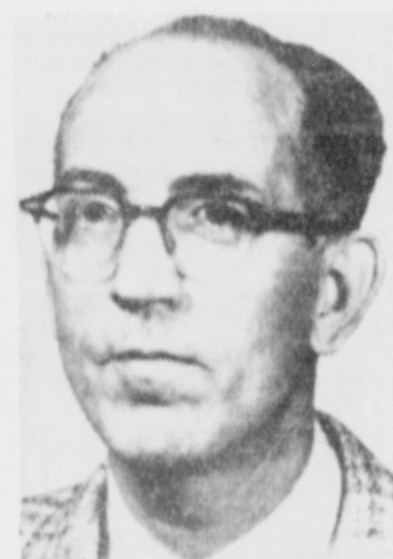

The average weekly earnings of factory production workers in Ohio decreased $1 from February, to $104.63 in March, as the work-

These French Buns Hold A Surprise for All Folks

FRENCH CHILDREN consider rolls filled with sweet cooking chocolate a treat. This American version of petits pains au chocolat may be served to older folk with tea or coffee.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

What are little French boys and girls made of? Slabs of bread and sticks of dark chocolate—if their standard after-school fare counts!

This bread-and-chocolate snack has been welcomed in France for years and years. So much so that long ago the custom inspired Gallic chefs to bake the chocolate right into a kind of bun. That's how petits pains au chocolat were born.

An American friend who grew up in France told us recently that when he thinks nostalgically of these buns he can still savor the remembered taste of the croissant-like pastry. Then he recalled how as a little boy he would carefully and gravely look over a plate of petits pains to choose one that had chocolate oozing out of its sides!

The first American recipe for pe-lets pains that we ever came across was introduced half a dozen years ago and was made from a rich baking powder biscuit dough in which water was substituted for the usual milk.

The following recipe is made with a yeast dough that is nearer the French original.

All tasters in our kitchen agreed that this American version must be offered fresh and hot from the oven, with the chocolate lusciously soft. Because the French use dark sweet chocolate to enclose in their rolls, we follow suit; the sweet cooking chocolate called for in this recipe has the needed robust flavor.

CHOCOLATE SURPRISE ROLLS
Ingredients: 1/2 cup milk, 1/3 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup butter or margarine, 1/4 cup warm (105 degrees) water, 1 package active dry yeast, 2 eggs (slightly beaten), 3 1/2 cups (about) sifted flour, 2 packages (4 1/2 pound each) sweet cooking chocolate, 1 egg slightly beaten for brushing roll tops, 1/2 cup slivered slightly toasted blanched almonds, confectioners' sugar.

Method: Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and butter; cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into a large mixing bowl; sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm mixture and the 2 eggs. Add 2 cups of the flour; beat until smooth; stir in enough of the remaining flour to make a soft dough out on prepared pastry cloth or lightly floured board, cover and let rest 5 minutes; knead dough 5 minutes until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl, cover with a damp cloth and allow to rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk—about 1 1/2 hours. Punch dough down and turn out on prepared pastry cloth; roll out into an 18 by 8 inch rectangle. Brush lightly with extra melted butter and cut into 36 2-inch squares (4 cuts lengthwise and 9 across). Place 1 square of chocolate eater—cornered in the center of each square of dough. Bring the opposite corners of dough over the top of the chocolate and pinch together tightly. Place on lightly greased cookie sheet; let rise until doubled in bulk—about 30 minutes. Brush with slightly beaten egg and sprinkle with almonds. Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven 12 to 15 minutes. Remove from cookie sheet and sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

Good Sauce Perks Up Fish Fillets for Fine Dinner

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Give fish fillets saucy treatment and lift them out of the humdrum scheme of meals.

One idea we adapted from a famous chicken dish, Country Captain. We cook chopped onion and green pepper in butter or olive oil and add canned tomatoes and salt and pepper; then long slow simmering to bring the combination to sauce consistency. Meanwhile a touch of curry powder, thyme and crushed garlic go in to make intriguing seasoning. Just before the sauce is poured over the hot cooked fillets several tablespoons of currants are added. The last touch is a topping of toasted almonds. To the table Country Fillets go to be served with rice and mango chutney, and quite elegant enough for company.

For a quick family dish heat tomato sauce (ready-prepared or homemade) with a touch of chili powder and pour over cooked fish fillets. Add hot drained whole-kernel corn and you'll have an excellent flavor combination.

No reason why nutritious cream sauce shouldn't be partner to the fillet, but remember both are bland foods so perk up the sauce. If you are fond of capers, and have a bottle of these savory green flower buds on hand, add some to the sauce with a little lemon juice.

Sliced onions and mushrooms, cooked in butter, are another delightful addition to a cream sauce. So are other seafoods—shrimp, lobster and scallops—with a little sherry to make Newburg style.

Golden cheddar cheese enhances a cream sauce; so does grated Parmesan. If you choose the latter, pour the well-seasoned cream sauce over the fish and sprinkle liberally with the cheese and a dusting of paprika. Place under the broiler to encrust with tempting flecks of brown.

How to cook the fish fillets to serve with the sauces? Broil, if you like, placing the pan fairly close to high heat. No need to turn the fish, but brush it with salad oil or spread with soft butter before it goes under the heat.

To steam the fillets an easy way, put them in a large skillet and just cover with seasoned boiling water. Simmer over low heat just until opaque through; lift the fillets out of the water with a couple of slotted pancake turners, draining well before saucing.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Twig Is Bent Too Far!

DEAR ABBY: What can be done with a daughter who picks the worst people she can find to be her friends?

We have always gone by the old saying: "As the twig is bent, the tree will grow." But it hasn't worked with us.

My husband and I have sacrificed so that our daughter could dress well and go with the best crowd. She is 18 now and goes with the crummiest bunch in town. Where have we failed?

HER PARENTS
DEAR PARENTS: Many parents (with the best of intentions) are overly-critical of their children's friends. Then, out of spite (or a feeling of "loyalty" to the friend), the child deliberately strengthens the friendship. Sometimes when the "twig is bent" too far it breaks.

DEAR ABBY: Whenever my husband and I are with other couples, he turns on the charm and gets all the attention he can from other women. I know him. He does this just to make me jealous.

Do you think I should play up to other men and teach him a lesson?

ELEANOR
DEAR ELEANOR: Before you consider "teaching lessons," you'd better get yourself a teacher's certificate. Be your sweet self and let your husband have a good time. He is probably making a bid for the ego massage he so desperately needs.

DEAR ABBY: I am an eligible bachelor. I own my own home, don't gamble or drink and have money in the bank. A neighbor of mine is a young widow with three little boys. I asked her if she would go out to supper with me and she said she would if she could take all her kids. Naturally I objected. (She could have left them with a neighbor.)

How can a man court a woman when she's got her kids with her? Did I make a mistake in refusing to take her kids? I am still interested in her but don't want to be taken for a fool. Should I ask her again and take her kids if she'll go?

LONESOME LOU
DEAR LOU: This woman is obviously interested in a man only if he is interested in her children. You struck out there. If you want to "court" her, ask her again and include the boys. If she likes you, she'll see you alone (in time). The way to a young widow's heart is usually through the hearts of her children.

DEAR ABBY: To the girl who is afraid to put her hair up at night because she doesn't want her husband to see her: My hair is also straight and baby fine and I have to put it up every night. I don't know about her husband, but MY husband sleeps with his eyes closed. I put it up after he has gone to sleep and comb it out in the morning before he gets up.

NO BIG DEAL
"What's your problem?" For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Did I make a mistake in refusing to take her kids? I am still interested in her but don't want to be taken for a fool. Should I ask her again and take her kids if she'll go?

LONESOME LOU: This woman is obviously interested in a man only if he is interested in her children. You struck out there. If you want to "court" her, ask her again and include the boys. If she likes you, she'll see you alone (in time). The way to a young widow's heart is usually through the hearts of her children.

DEAR ABBY: To the girl who is afraid to put her hair up at night because she doesn't want her husband to see her: My hair is also straight and baby fine and I have to put it up every night. I don't know about her husband, but MY husband sleeps with his eyes closed. I put it up after he has gone to sleep and comb it out in the morning before he gets up.

Pirates Sneak Into First Place In National Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
They can't write us off. We were only three games out on the first of September.

Everybody smiled and looked wise when Danny Murtaugh the Pittsburgh manager boldly stated his case in March at Fort Myers Fla.

Murtaugh's analysis looks solid at this early stage of the National League race. The season is only two weeks old but his Pirates are riding in first place.

The Pirates sneaked into the lead Sunday by knocking off Milwaukee 7-3 while the San Francisco Giants were losing to the Chicago Cubs 9-4. It was Pittsburgh's fifth straight victory and its eighth in 11 starts.

Once again it was Elroy Face walking from the bullpen to save the day. Harvey Haddix had been rolling along with a 7-0 shutout going to the ninth.

A double by Joe Adcock a walk a double by Johnny Logan a sacrifice fly and another double by pinchhitter Mike Krivosh finished Haddix. In came Face to strike out pinchhitter Charley Lau and end the game by making Red Schoendienst ground out.

The Giants had a 4-2 lead going to the eighth when Billy O'Dell was replaced by Billy Loes. When the inning was over the Cubs had seven runs and the ball game. Don Elston was the winner.

Solly Hemus' St. Louis Cardinals won their fourth straight after losing their first five hammering Los Angeles pitching for a 7-3 decision. Ken Boyer hit his fifth homer and old man Stan Musial pitched No. 2.

Eight homers were hit in the Phillie-Cincinnati doubleheader including a grand slammer by rookie Jim Coker in the Phils' opening 9-5 victory. Roy McMillan hit his fifth and Frank Robinson and Eddie Kasko each added their second of the day in Cincinnati's 10-4 second game triumph.

Fifteen homers were hit in the American including three grand slammers by Albie Pearson and Billy Klaus of Baltimore and Lou Berberet of Detroit. Detroit remained unbeaten with five straight triumphs Chicago 12-4. New York bombed Baltimore 15-9 scoring eight in the first before a man was retired. Cleveland won its first game 7-0 on Gary Bell's six-hit shutout of Kansas City and Washington outlasted Boston 11-10 with Camilo Pascual working in relief.

Early Wynn's second straight failure the slugging of the Detroit Tigers and the performance of the New York Yankees' young pitchers cast a new light on the American League situation today after only one week of the season.

Wynn was slugged for six runs in the first inning Sunday as Detroit humbled the defending champion Chicago White Sox 12-4. The 40-year-old right-hander who won 22 games for the 1959 pennant winners had been knocked out of opening day by Kansas City.

Detroit's four big guns—Rocky Colavito, Steve Biko, Al Kaline and Charlie Maxwell—didn't hit a homer but the Tigers got help from an unexpected source.

Casey Wise who hit one homer in the last three years in the majors last year hammered a grand slammer off Wynn climaxing that big first inning.

The Yankees tied an American League record by scoring eight runs in the first inning before Baltimore could get anybody out. Although Jim Coates an opening day winner weakened and needed relief the issue never was in doubt in a 15-9 Yankee victory.

Judges Cancel Victory by Sen. Frost

WESTBURY N. Y. (AP)—Su Mac Lad a 23-to-1 shot was put into the winner's spot at the $25,000 open trot at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night when the first place horse Senator Frost was disqualified.

Senator Frost owned by Wayne Galvin of Wilmington Ohio was disqualified for crowding Tyson Scott at the far turn.

Driver Dick Buxton was forced to race the 5-year-old gelding on the outside for three-quarters of a mile as the pacesetter Tyson Scott refused to yield the lead. As Senator Frost passed the leader Tyson Scott was crowded causing him to go off his stride.

This marked the second time in two years that the fastest trotter in competition has been disqualified in a race here. Last season Senator Frost finished first in the $50,000 American Trotting Championship but went off stride 15 feet from the finish line while lapped on French champion Jamn who was declared the winner.

Su Mac Lad driven by Stanley Dancer for owner Irving Berke-meyer of Milford N. J. paid $49.30. Time for the mile over a slow track was 2:06 2/5. Heath-cliffe and Trader Horn placed second and third respectively in the revised order of finish.

Wiseman Named Cage Coach at Northwestern

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—The new basketball coach at nearby Northwestern High School is Wayne Wiseman, playmaker of the Rio Grande College team during the Bevo Francis Era. Wiseman coached at Oak Hill High school the past three years. He replaces Herbert Lutz at Northwestern.

In the first Rose Bowl football game in 1902, Michigan defeated Stanford 49-0.

Finsterwald Wins $3,500

New Orleans Victory Ranks Him Second

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—There's nothing magic about the formula Dow Finsterwald used to win the $27,000 Greater New Orleans Open. But it's proper application placed him among golf's two big money winners today.

The methodical 30-year-old veteran from Tequesta Fla. blazed in with a 3-under-par 69 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 270 more than enough to break a 19-year-old tournament record.

Finsterwald had a 6-stroke edge over Al Bessink whose final round 70 and tournament total of 276 represented the grossing N.Y. belter's best showing in more than two years.

Former PGA champion Bob Rosburg and three others tied for third at 277. Jon Gustin of Cladwyne Pa. fell next in line at 278 and Dick Knight of San Diego Calif. was 8th at 279.

Finsterwald picked up a check for $3,500 his first winning effort since the Los Angeles Open last January. But he has been to the pay window often on the present tour and his $25,000 puts him behind only Arnold Palmer's $44,000 for the year.

Just stay out of trouble and you can't miss is the Finsterwald philosophy. He had only three bogeys in the tournament a feat one PGA official termed incredible.

For a brief moment Sunday Finsterwald abandons his conservatism and turned gambler. His teen shot on the first hole sliced into the woods and fell behind a forked tree. He could have played it safe but chose rather to slam through the opening and the ball dropped on the green 200 yards away only 15 feet from the pin and his par 4.

Coach John Current's cindermen have posted wins at Bexley, Grove City, Columbus South and Lancaster.

Coach Dick Fisher's diamond crew has captured decisions over Chillicothe, Hillsboro and Greenfield. The two losses were to Chillicothe and Hillsboro, the only teams the Tigers have met twice so far this season.

THE game at Pleasant View will be an SCO League battle. The Tigers currently stand 2-1 in loop play.

The track team has not encountered a league foe as yet. The loop championship will be decided in an All-SCO meet May 4 at Wilmington.

SUGGS IS VICTOR IN DALLAS OPEN

DALLAS (AP)—Louis Suggs, the smooth swinger from Atlanta, showed them Sunday how a champion should finish a golf tournament.

She had seen a 5-stroke lead melt to 1 when she double-bogeyed the 11th hole of the final round in the $10,000 Dallas Women's Open.

Then the defending champ pulled herself together and birdied four of the last seven holes to win the tournament by five strokes with a record 281 for 72 holes. She had a 1-under-par 70 on the final round over the rainsoaked 6,238-yard Glen Lakes Country Club course.

Mickey Wright from San Diego, also shot a closing 1-under-par 70 and finished second with 285.

Fastest Yankee Miler Keeps Busy

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Dyrol Burleson isn't going to let up after running an American record 3:58.6 mile here Saturday.

The 6-1, 156-pound University of Oregon sophomore will compete in three successive meets, against Washington State and Oregon State and in the West Coast Relays at Fresno, Calif., May 14.

Herb Score Faces Kansas City Test

DETROIT (AP)—Herb Score, a young man with a question mark arm, makes no alibis for his bad performances and wants no sympathy for his misfortunes.

He is not going to worry about a so-called comeback and he refuses to set any sort of a goal for himself.

But a lot of people will be waiting with more than casual interest at Kansas City tonight when the fireballing left-hander faces the Kansas City Athletics.

The Chicago White Sox are counting on the 26-year-old former Cleveland Indian flame thrower to pull them out of a pitching tailspin. The Sox have not had a route-going performance in five starts.

Large Crowd, Fine Weather Highlights Harness Matinee

A fine crowd of more than 700 persons yesterday witnessed the annual Harness Racing Matinee at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Raceway.

A brilliant sun blazed the well-maintained race track as eight races and two exhibition trots were driven before an enthusiastic crowd.

Highlight of the afternoon was the appearance of the world's double-gaited champion, Steam' Demon. The magnificent bay horse trotted two exhibitions.

Forrest Short drove the seven-year-old Steam' in the first mile in 2:10.3 and came back with a second heat clocking of 2:07.3, the fastest the horse has trotted this year.

BEFORE yesterday, Steam' had trotted in 2:17. His world marks are 1:38.4 in the pace and 1:39.1 in the trot. Circleville's claim to harness racing fame and fortune is owned by George W. Van Camp.

Short and Frank Mace were double heat winners. Mace drove Jerry H. to a double heat victory in the classified pace in times of 2:17.4 and 2:11.2.

Short was behind Jerry Way in the first race win in 2:23.2. The three-year-old pace saw Jerry Way, owned by Neal Helfrich, streak to his initial win of the 1960 season and soar his hopes to winning the Little Brown Jug. The chestnut colt is eligible for the classic.

Short second race win was in the classified trot behind Raider Volo, owned by M. E. Wolfman. The gelding won the first race ever held on the Scioto Downs Raceway, Columbus, last fall. Raider Volo won in 2:27.2 yesterday.

The second race went to Van Camp's Im It, with Van Camp in the sulky. The bay filly took the lead early and was never headed as he paced to victory in 2:19.3.

For the first time in the history of the local matinee, a Circleville owner and trainer staged a race of his own. Porter Martin entered five two-year-old pacers and trotters in the third race.

MARTIN raced to victory in the first heat behind Wolfe's Pilot in 2:36.1. The second heat went to Porter's brother, Wayne, behind Clever Zip, in 2:29.4.

Best of summary was Wayne Martin behind Clever Zip and to him went the blanket. Porter Martin wasn't worried because he captured the spoils regardless of who won since he owned the field.

The fourth race, the classified pace, had the most experienced horses of the matinee. Jerry H. won both heats with home stretch sprints that nipped Babe's Pride in both events.

Driven brilliantly by Frank Mace, Jerry H., owned by Clarence Helvering, remained behind the front-runner until the back stretch before making his bid.

Milt Carpenter, drove his Ruthie Pride to the winner's circle in the fifth race, a classified pace. Taking an early lead, Pride "poured on the coals" and left the field for a winning time of 2:16.1.

Steam' Demon posted the best times of the afternoon with marks of 2:10.3 and 2:07.3. The best actual race time came in the second heat of the classified pace, won by Jerry H. in 2:11.2.

Driver Dick Buxton was forced to race the 5-year-old gelding on the outside for three-quarters of a mile as the pacesetter Tyson Scott refused to yield the lead. As Senator Frost passed the leader Tyson Scott was crowded causing him to go off his stride.

This marked the second time in two years that the fastest trotter in competition has been disqualified in a race here. Last season Senator Frost finished first in the $50,000 American Trotting Championship but went off 15 feet from the finish line while lapped on French champion Jamin who was declared the winner.

Su Mac Lad driven by Stanley Dancer for owner Irving Berke-meyer of Milford N. J. paid $49.30. Time for the mile over a slow track was 2:06 2/5. Heath-cliffe and Trader Horn placed second and third respectively in the revised order of finish.

Wiseman Named Cage Coach at Northwestern
SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—The new basketball coach at near-by Northwestern High School is Wayne Wiseman, playmaker of the Rio Grande College team during the Bevo Francis Era. Wiseman coached at Oak Hill High school the past three years. He replaces Herbert Lutz at Northwestern.

In the first Rose Bowl football game in 1902, Michigan defeated Stanford 49-0.

Finsterwald Wins $3,500

New Orleans Victory Ranks Him Second

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—There's nothing magic about the formula Dow Finsterwald used to win the $27,000 Greater New Orleans Open. But it's proper application placed him among golf's two big money winners today.

The methodical 30-year-old veteran from Tequesta Fla. blazed in with a 3-under-par 69 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 270 more than enough to break a 30-year-old tournament record.

Finsterwald had a 6-stroke edge over Al Bessink whose final round 70 and tournament total of 276 represented the Grossinger N.Y. belter's best showing in more than two years.

Former PGA champion Bob Rosburg and three others tied for third at 277. Jon Gustin of Gladwyne Pa. fell next in line at 278 and Dick Knicker of San Diego Calif. was 8th at 279.

Finsterwald picked up a check for $3,500 his first winning effort since the Los Angeles Open last January. But he has been to the pay window often on the present tour and his $25,000 puts him behind only Arnold Palmer's $44,000 for the year.

Just stay out of trouble and you can't miss is the Finsterwald philosophy. He had only three bogeys in the tournament a feat one PGA official termed incredible.

For a brief moment Sunday Finsterwald abandoned his conservatism and turned gambler. His teen shot on the first hole sliced into the woods and fell behind a forked tree. He could have played it safe but chose rather to slam through the opening and the ball dropped on the green 200 yards away only 15 feet from the pin and his par 4.

Tribe Chalks First Win Of Season

DETROIT (AP)—After four straight defeats, the Cleveland Indians finally found the winning combination.

Gary Bell's six-hit pitching and Woodie Held's hitting were the big factors in the Tribe's 7-0 victory over Kansas City Sunday. Held smashed two home runs, knocking in four runs.

Manager Joe Gordon juggled his lineup, making Vic Power his leadoff batter.

Power responded with three hits and one RBI, his best performance in five games, and Gordon said he will keep Power in the lead-off spot when the Indians meet Detroit here Tuesday. The Indians are idle today.

The Athletics didn't get a man past second base as Bell was masterful. The right-hander struck out nine and walked only two.

In 19 1/3 innings Bell has struck out 21 and given up 10 hits. He blanked Detroit for 10 innings in the season opener last Tuesday but got no batting support. Detroit got two runs off Bell in the 11th and went on to win 4-2 in 15 innings.

Sunday Bell got a five-run margin the first inning.

Power singled and went to third when Jimmy Piersall beat out a bunt. Johnny Temple was safe when pitcher Don Larsen muffed a throw while covering first base.

Power scored as Walter Bond grounded into a force, and Piersall came home on Russ Nixon's sacrifice fly.

Then Held drove a homer over the left-center field fence, more than 400 feet away, scoring Temple and Tito Francona, who had walked.

Herb Score Faces Kansas City Test

DETROIT (AP)—Herb Score, a young man with a question mark arm, makes no alibi for his bad performance and wants no sympathy for his misfortunes.

He is not going to worry about a so-called comeback and he refuses to set any sort of a goal for himself.

But a lot of people will be waiting with more than casual interest at Kansas City tonight when the fireballing left-hander faces the Kansas City Athletics.

The Chicago White Sox are counting on the 26-year-old former Cleveland Indian flame thrower to pull them out of a pitching tailspin. The Sox have not had a route-going performance in five starts.

Large Crowd, Fine Weather Highlights Harness Matinee

A fine crowd of more than 700 persons yesterday witnessed the annual Harness Racing Matinee at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Raceway.

A brilliant sun blazed the well-maintained race track as eight races and two exhibition trots were driven before an enthusiastic crowd.

Highlight of the afternoon was the appearance of the world's double-gaited champion, Steam' Demon. The magnificent bay horse trotted two exhibitions.

Forrest Short drove the seven-year-old Steam' in the first mile in 2:10.3 and came back with a second heat clocking of 2:07.3, the fastest the horse has trotted this year.

BEFORE yesterday, Steam' had trotted in 2:17. His world marks are 1:58.4 in the pace and 1:59.1 in the trot. Circleville's claim to harness racing fame and fortune is owned by George W. Van Camp.

Short and Frank Mace were double heat winners. Mace drove Jerry H. to a double heat victory in the classified pace in times of 2:17.4 and 2:11.2.

Short was behind Jerry Way in the first race win in 2:23.2. The three-year-old pace saw Jerry Way, owned by Neal Helfrich, streak to his initial win of the 1960 season and soar his hopes to winning the Little Brown Jug. The chestnut colt is eligible for the classic.

Short second race win was in the classified trot behind Raider Volo, owned by M. E. Wolf man. The gelding won the first race ever held on the Scioto Downs Raceway, Columbus, last fall. Raider Volo won in 2:27.2 yesterday.

The second race went to Van Camp's Im It, with Van Camp in the sulky. The bay filly took the lead early and was never headed as he paced to victory in 2:19.3.

For the first time in the history of the local matinee, a Circleville owner and trainer staged a race of his own. Porter Martin entered five two-year-old pacers and trotters in the third race.

MARTIN raced to victory in the first heat behind Wolfe's Pilot in 2:36.1. The second heat went to Porter's brother, Wayne, behind Clever Zip in 2:29.4.

Best of summary was Wayne Martin behind Clever Zip and to him went the blanket. Porter Martin wasn't worried because he captured the spoils regardless of who won since he owned the field.

The fourth race, the classified pace, had the most experienced horses of the matinee. Jerry H. won both heats with home stretch sprints that nipped Babe's Pride in both events.

Driven brilliantly by Frank Mace, Jerry H., owned by Clarence Helvering, remained behind the front-runner until the back stretch before making his bid.

Milt Carpenter, drove his Ruthie Pride to the winner's circle in the fifth race, a classified pace. Taking an early lead, Pride "poured on the coals" and left the field for a winning time of 2:16.1.

Steam' Demon posted the best times of the afternoon with marks of 2:10.3 and 2:07.3. The best actual race time came in the second heat of the classified pace, won by Jerry H. in 2:11.2.

DUE TO THE wintry weather

DALLAS (AP)—Louis Suggs, the smooth swinger from Atlanta, showed them Sunday how a champion should finish a golf tournament.

She had seen a 5-stroke lead melt to 1 when she double-bogeyed the 11th hole of the final round in the $10,000 Dallas Women's Open.

Then the defending champ pulled herself together and birdied four of the last seven holes to win the tournament by five strokes with a record 281 for 72 holes. She had a 1-under-par 70 on the final round over the rain-swept 6,238 yard Glen Lakes Country Club course.

Mickey Wright from San Diego, also shot a closing 1-under-par 70 and finished second with 286.

Fastest Yankee Miler Keeps Busy

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Dyrol Burleson isn't going to let up after running an American record 3:58.6 mile here Saturday.

The 6-1, 156-pound University of Oregon sophomore will compete in three successive meets, against Washington State and Oregon State and in the West Coast Relays at Fresno, Calif., May 14.

Saltcreek Pays Tribute To Final Athletic Teams

Saltcreek Twp. High School held its final athletic banquet Friday in the school gymnasium.

Members of the Warrior football and basketball teams were honored for the last time. This fall Saltcreek and Pickaway combine high school classes to become Logan Elm High School.

The evening started with Invocation by H. A. Strous. Dale Drake was master of ceremonies. Following dinner, music was presented by the cheerleaders.

Strous gave the history of Saltcreek athletics. School principal, Walter Chambers, led the tribute to the 1931 cage team, the only Warrior quintet to win the Pickaway County Championship.

MEMBERS of that team were invited to last night's banquet. Athletes who played on the squad included Albert Spangler, James Chilcote, Charles Morris, Judson Beougher, James Hartranft, Harold Horn and Paul Neff.

Loren Straight presented the junior high awards. Guest speaker was Roy Stout. Wayne Evans presented the varsity and reserve awards. Chambers concluded the evening with a few remarks.

Varsity football awards went to the following players: seniors—John Jenkins and Keith Turvey; juniors—Bob Bowser, George Clifton, Denny Valentine and Ken Valentine, and sophomores—Roger Clarke, Lenny Hardman, Dick Shaw and Chuck Spangler.

Cheerleaders were Rebecca Collins, Carolyn Cupp, Judy Hardman, Judy Archer and Beverly Hartranft. Managers were Terry Anderson and Jim Martindale.

Reserve basketball players honored included: juniors—Bob Weaver, Kenny Valentine, Robert Willey, sophomores—Terry Garrett, Hardman and Dave Horn, and freshmen—Anderson and Martindale.

Cheerleaders were JoAnn Dressbach, Verna McFadden and Vernadine Van Fossen. Joe Speakman was manager.

JUNIOR high awards climaxed the program. Seventh grade players were Jim Bowser, Charles Hayes, Lewis Jordan, Jeff Lutz, Mike Spangler, Paul Speakman, Fred Stumbo and Sam Stumbo.

Cheerleaders Kay Harron, Barbara Jenkins and Sandra Van Fossen. Richard Martindale was the manager.

Eighth graders were Mike Clifton, Charles Derexson, Gary Hardman, Arthur Murray, Drexel Poling, Danny Shaw and David Van Fossen. Cheerleaders were Carolyn Crosby, Beverly Speakman and Sally Weaver. Paul Spung was the manager.

Members of the serving committee were Mrs. Joe Jenkins, Mrs. Harold Horn, Mrs. Marvin Hartranft and Mrs. Carl Anderson.

Newk Gains Credit for Redleg Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Don Newcombe more than once almost written off as washed up is still pitching and winning. He got credit for the Cincinnati Reds' 10-4 nightcap victory Sunday at Philadelphia. Cincinnati blew the first game 9-5.

The big resolute right-hander gave up seven hits and needed Jim Brosnan's help in the late innings.

"Sure I can't throw as hard as I used to," Newcombe admits "and there are times when I wish the plate was about 10 feet closer. But I know I've got better control. I don't mean throwing strikes. I mean throwing the ball where I want to. There's a difference."

The Redleg victory cracked a four-game losing streak.

Roy McMillan who leads both leagues in home runs led off the nightcap's first inning with his fifth. Frankie Robinson and Eddie Kasko had one in each game.

After McMillan's opening homer Vada Pinson doubled and Robinson's sacrifice fly brought him in.

A triple by Ed Bailey and Kasko's homer in the second gave the Reds two more runs and Robinson's homer in the fifth produced two more. The Rhinelanders put over three runs in the sixth before Robin Roberts came on to mop up as the Phils' sixth pitcher.

Newcombe weakened in the fifth inning but got through it after three Philly runs came across one unearned. Trouble continued in the sixth and Brosnan took over holding the Phils to three hits the rest of the way.

In the opener the Reds were overtaken much as in a loss to Pittsburgh one week before.

And the losing pitcher in both cases Ted Wiaend found himself on his way back to Havana of the International League when the game was over.

Toronto Trims Columbus, 7-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Royals came to life with 15 hits off three Richmond pitchers and produced an 8-3 victory Sunday. The Royals totalled only five hits their two previous games.

The victory kept the Royals tied for third place in the International League with Toronto, who beat Columbus 7-3. Rochester, whose 3-0 record is tops percentage-wise but a half-game behind Buffalo (5-1), and Miami were rained out of a doubleheader.

Buffalo and Havana split a doubleheader, the Bisons taking the seven-inning opener 2-1 and the Cubans copping their first game of the year, 5-4 in 14 innings of the nightcap.

Jim King and Clyde Parrish homered for Toronto, which got only eight hits, half for extra bases. A double by winning pitcher Bob Chakales and Jack Waters' triple in a two-run sixth inning wrapped up things. Nino Escalera homered for Columbus. Ron Blackburn lost.

Liston Points For 22nd Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sonny Liston doesn't intend to let dust gather on his gloves or watch his bankroll dwindle while waiting for a heavyweight title fight.

Unbeaten in 5½ years the husky second-ranking challenger goes after his 22nd victory and a big purse tonight when he faces Roy Harris No. 6 contender at Houston Tex.

The 10-rounder at the Sam Houston Coliseum will gross around $70,000 in Houston and will be beamed via closed circuit television to arenas in 10 other cities in seven states. The fighters will share in the TV deal put together by the promoting Texas Boxing Enterprises and Giant View TV of Detroit.

NEW YORK (AP) — There should be a few rules about the televised mystery dramas. Some of course are well-known. The butler should never be the one who did it. It's not fair to knock off lovable characters.

And even if you are John Dickson Carr it is not fair to resolve a puzzle involving murder and 17th century witchcraft in a modern suburb by having the villains a witch and a warlock. This isn't cricket even if it's done tongue in cheek.

That is exactly what happened on NBC's Hour of Great Mysteries program Sunday night. The mystery was "The Burning Court" by Carr and adapted by William and Audrey Roos who also know the rules better than that.

Barbara Bel Geddes played Marie the young suburban housewife mother and pillar of the library fund drive who was really a vengeful French witch burned unsuccessfully obviously — at the stake in 1672. George C. Scott in a get-up that looked as if it had been left over from "Masquerade Party" played her 1672 lover. They combined to knock off a descendant of the judge who had sentenced them to the stake. The witchcraft angle was wonderful during the first half of the hour when they played it straight. Then everything went supernatural and worse cute.

NBC pulled together a lot of old newsreel clips and still photos of England's Princess Margaret added a commentary to make it current and called it "Overture to a Royal Wedding." It didn't shed much new light on the subjects but it was rather interesting to watch a little princess grow up in the spotlight.

Chet Huntley and David Brinkley of NBC started to steam up about the approaching political conventions. Sunday they took us into the sites of the summer's activities and filled in with rem iniscences of other conventions.

N-S Amateur Golf Tournament Opens

PINEHURST N. C. (AP) — The "golfer's tournament" the North and South Amateur, gets under way today with a record field of 150 in the qualifying round.

In its 60 years of history the tournament has come to be known as an annual gathering of those who love the game, rather than a spectacle.

Most of the country's top amateurs have played here over the years. They find the beautifully conditioned, testing No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club an ideal setting for a championship.

Jack Nicklaus from Columbus, Ohio, is not defending the title he won last spring. His studies at Ohio State are keeping him busy.

The Pittsburgh Pirates' Eloy Face recorded the highest winning percentage in Major league history during 1959 with a record of 18 victories and one loss. His percentage — .947.

Newk Gains Credit for Redleg Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Don Newcombe more than once almost written off as washed up is still pitching and winning.

He got credit for the Cincinnati Reds' 10-4 nightcap victory Sunday at Philadelphia. Cincinnati blew the first game 9-5.

The big resolute righthander gave up seven hits and needed Jim Brosnan's help in the late innings.

"Sure I can't throw as hard as I used to," Newcombe admits "and there are times when I wish the plate was about 10 feet closer."

"But I know I've got better control. I don't mean throwing strikes. I mean throwing the ball where I want to. There's a difference."

The Redleg victory cracked a four-game losing streak.

Roy McMillan who leads both leagues in home runs led off the nightcap's first inning with his fifth. Frankie Robinson and Ed die Kasko had one in each game.

After McMillan's opening homer Vada Pinson doubled and Robinson's sacrifice fly brought him in.

A triple by Ed Bailey and Kasko's homer in the second gave the Reds two more runs and Robinson's homer in the fifth produced two more. The Rhinelanders put over three runs in the sixth before Robin Roberts came on to mop up as the Phils' sixth pitcher.

Newcombe weakened in the fifth inning but got through it after three Philly runs came across one unearned. Trouble continued in the sixth and Brosnan took over holding the Phils to three hits the rest of the way.

In the opener the Reds were overtaken much as in a loss to Pittsburgh one week before.

And the losing pitcher in both cases Ted Wiaend found himself on his way back to Havana of the International League when the game was over.

Toronto Trims Columbus, 7-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Royals came to life with 15 hits off three Richmond pitchers and produced an 8-3 victory Sunday. The Royals tallied only five hits their two previous games.

The victory kept the Royals tied for third place in the International League with Toronto, who beat Columbus 7-3. Rochester, whose 3-0 record is tops percentage-wise but a half game behind Buffalo (5-1), and Miami were rained out of a doubleheader.

Buffalo and Havana split a doubleheader, the Bisons taking the seven-inning opener 2-1 and the Cubans copping their first game of the year, 5-4 in 14 innings of the nightcap.

Jim King and Clyde Parris homered for Toronto, which got only eight hits, half for extra bases. A double by winning pitcher Bob Chakales and Jack Waters' triple in a two-run sixth inning wrapped up things. Nino Escalera homered for Columbus. Ron Blackburn lost.

Liston Points For 22nd Win

Sonny Liston doesn't intend to let dust gather on his gloves or watch his bankroll dwindle while waiting for a heavyweight title fight.

Unbeaten in 5½ years the husky second-ranking challenger goes after his 22nd victory and a big purse tonight when he faces Roy Harris No. 6 contender at Houston Tex.

The 10-rounder at the Sam Houston Coliseum will gross around $70,000 in Houston and will be beamed via closed circuit television to arenas in 10 other cities in seven states. The fighters will share in the TV deal put together by the promoting Texas Boxing Enterprises and Giant View TV of Detroit.

Body of Judge Found in Lake

U.S. Jurist Missing Since Last October

CHICAGO (AP)—The finding of the body of missing Federal Judge W. Lynn Parkinson has climaxed one of Chicago's most famous missing persons cases. Still a mystery is how the 57-year-old jurist met his death.

The discovery apparently resolved the knotty legal problem of filling the judge's seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals.

A passerby spotted the judge's decomposed body Sunday floating face-down in Lake Michigan near the north edge of the Loop. This was several blocks from the Drake Hotel, where the judge vanished Oct. 26, apparently sick and dazed.

The body, identified by a cousin, fingerprints and identification cards, bore no apparent marks of violence. An autopsy report today said everything was consistent with drowning, a theory held by many policemen since the judge's spectacles and umbrella were found along a route leading to the Oak street beach last fall.

An extensive search by skin divers then failed to turn up clues, giving rise to speculation the judge had met with foul play.

His widow Elsie Ruth maintained that her husband was an amnesia victim.

Judge Parkinson's son, William L. Parkinson Jr., who owns a dress shop in West Lafayette, Ind., said that his father was either "put in the lake or had an accident and fell in."

He ruled out suicide saying "Dad wasn't the type to take his own life."

Coroner Walter McCarron said his office would investigate the possibility the judge was robbed. He said no money or jewelry was found on the body.

The judge reported by his family to have suffered from low blood pressure left his office about 4:30 p.m. Oct. 26 to walk to his home a few blocks away. He never made it.

In the next two hours he was seen in cocktail lounges. Two men saw him stumble down an underpass near his office where his glasses later were found. A cab driver and doorman helped him alight from a taxi at the Drake.

Between 6:15 and 6:30 p. m. he was seen lurching down the arcade of the Drake. Then he vanished.

The April meeting of the Child Study League was held in the home of Mrs. John Steinhilber. Guest speaker was Dr. Lowell Smith of Chillicothe. His topic was "Your Children and Discipline."

Dr. Smith said, "Children need help in developing the confidence in themselves that will maintain their self-respect and dignity. Discipline is a matter of teaching and limiting."

"A child learns from the example of his parents. Children are persistent about having their own way. They need guidance from the pre-school age right on into adolescence."

"There is no such thing as a completely peaceful household where there are children. The self-discipline the parent has helped him to achieve, will ensure for him respectful and satisfying relationships with others."

A short business meeting, conducted by the President, Mrs. Paul Whiteside, was held following the program. New officers elected for the coming year are, Mrs. Eugene Schleich, president; Mrs. Karl Morrison, vice president; Mrs. Harold Mace, secretary; and Mrs. Warren Wright, treasurer.

The club voted to contribute to the Leukemia Fund of the Children's Hospital in Columbus.

THE NEXT meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. William D. Radcliff. Several members are planning to attend the Ohio Child Conservation League Central District Spring Conference, April 30, at the Ohio State Fairgrounds in Columbus. A salad course was served by Mrs. Cooke Metzger, Mrs. Jack Clark and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Gephart recently observed their 50th Wedding Anniversary.

Approximately 100 persons were present last Saturday evening at the Parish House to hear guest speaker, Chet Long, noted WBSN-TV newscaster of Columbus. Hosts for the occasion were members of the Child Study League.

Long told of several trips he has made abroad. If everyone could have the privilege to travel to other countries, and could understand their way of living, and they understand ours, it would make for a better world peace, Long said. He commented on the serenity of a small town such as ours, being very similar to his small home town in Indiana.

The flower arrangement, which was used on the tea table, was given to David Drummond, the holder of the lucky ticket. Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, tea and coffee were served at the close of the meeting.

The Sorosis Club met at the home of Mrs. Russell Wardell Monday with 50 members and guests present. Mrs. Robert Adkins of Circleville, presented a paper on "Firsts in Pickaway County".

Mrs. Paul Whiteside presided during the business meeting.

The club will serve food to the blood donors, April 22, when the Bloodmobile comes to the Circleville Methodist Church.

Following the business meeting members modeled Easter Hats which they had created. Prizes were given to Mrs. James Hamman for the most original and Mrs. Don McDill for the prettiest.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the committee composed of Mrs. Archie Rawlinson, Mrs. Van Meter Hulce, Mrs. Lester Wolford, Mrs. Edgar Anderson, Mrs. William Easterday and Mrs. Roy Sampson. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Warren Wright, in May.

THE APRIL meeting of the Parent Teachers Society was held in the Williamsport School Auditorium with about 100 parents and children in attendance. Mrs. Donald Schleich, president, opened the business meeting.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by Gerald Reynolds. The Treasurer, Mrs. Norman Leist, reported a balance of $128.81 plus the profit from the recent basketball banquet of $81.21.

Cecil Roebuck, Principal of the man who talked on the Bond Issue coming up in the May election and explained why the change in the Atlanta and Williamsport School has come about.

The change is due to the enrollment of 48 first graders at Williamsport this next year, which will require two first grades and another room. All the rooms in Williamsport school are filled to capacity. There will be a small enrollment in the Atlanta School.

Mrs. Joseph Peters presented the following musical program. The High School Girls Chorus sang "Oh, What a Beautiful Evening", "Some Enchanted Evening", and "Look for the Silver Lining".

The school Band played "Carmen Ohio", "Marching Song", "The Band Played On", and the "Williamsport School Song". The Seventh and Eighth Grade Chorus sang "I Like It Here", "Rosa Linda" and "Chopiniana".

Ruth Barnes played a piano solo; The Senior High Girls and Boys Chorus sang "Hosanna" and the Junior and Senior High Girls and Boys Chorus concluded the program with "Make America Proud of You."

14 Are Injured In Race Riots

Negroes Try To Swim Off Biloxi Beaches

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Gun-carrying police—trying to quell race riots that left 14 wounded or injured in fights—patrolled this Gulf Coast resort city today.

Tension lined faces of both Negro and white residents. Police talked little and moved watchfully for trouble to explode again in this normally gay city of 45,000.

The white sand beaches, where the trouble started Sunday over a Negro attempt to swim from an area reserved for whites, were empty.

Mississippi's worst race riot erupted suddenly on this 28-mile man-made beach under a warm sun on a lazy Sunday afternoon. Three bloody chapters followed in confused sequence.

First, about 50 Negro men, women and children gathered across the highway from a white hotel on the sand. Some stepped into the Gulf of Mexico, the signal for a group of whites to show up. Fighting broke out. Whites chased Negroes off the beach.

Next, four Negro men and about 25 women and children gathered on the beach in front of the New Biloxi Hospital about a mile away from the first fight. A white group broke up the crowd when some of the Negroes stepped into the Gulf.

There was no official version of the fighting, but the four Negroes injured in this melee said their attackers hit them with chains, blackjacks and sticks.

Still later, a huge crowd of Negroes massed in front of the home of Dr. Gilbert Mason, Negro physician. Onlookers variously estimated the crowd at 400 and 500.

Dr. Mason tried to break the beach color barrier by swimming in the Gulf last week. Police arrested him on a disorderly conduct charge. His case is pending in city court.

Police arrested Dr. Mason again Sunday. The charge was fighting and disrupting traffic.

Before the sun went down, a crowd of Negroes estimated by Mayor Laz Quave at 300 to 400 roamed up and down Biloxi streets.

Gun violence broke out at nightfall. Bullets and shotgun pellets wounded eight Negroes and two whites.

1960 Spring Continues To Kick Up Fuss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin and Upper Michigan communities battled floods and a Texas town began picking the debris left by tornado winds today as spring continued to kick up a fuss in scattered areas of the nation.

Weekend rainfalls of up to 8 inches swelled northern Wisconsin rivers over their banks Sunday. Rampaging waters tore away power and communication lines, washed out roads and railroad tracks and chased an estimated 400 persons from their homes.

About 240 residents of the Lake Superior shore community of Odanah, a Chippewa Indian village of 800 on the Bad River Reservation, were forced from their homes by the flooded Bad River. Another 40 were isolated. Wisconsin Gov. Gaylord Nelson declared the affected district a disaster area and ordered out the National Guard to help local officials.

At Hurley, Wis., 25 miles to the east, the flooding Montreal River threatened to wash away one of the two bridges linking Hurley to Ironwood, Mich.

Fierce winds struck the north Texas town of Terrell, about 30 miles east of Dallas, causing extensive property damage. The winds unroofed and damaged buildings at the municipal airport and in the business district and three house trailers were demolished. No injuries were reported.

A group of 97 commercial egg producers, Purina Chow dealers and representatives of the Ralston Purina Co. met recently in the dining room of the Circleville Elks Club to discuss the new Purina Premium Seal eggs.

Speakers for the evening were Fred McIlmore, sales manager of the Ohio Division of Ralston Purina, and Fritz Shuler, Carl Nethers and Otto Groene, territory salesmen for Purina.

They explained that Columbus has been set up as a test city to market Purina eggs. They stated this is the first time a feed manufacturing company has initiated helping an egg market and achieving a better price for the product of its customers.

A poll of weekly newspaper editors in West Virginia indicated Humphrey appeared a likely winner in the primary. But the editors, polled by the New York Times, also said Kennedy had been picking up votes recently.

Kennedy's fortunes appeared smoother in other states. Maine Democrats ended their annual convention Sunday by picking a 26-delegate slate that was unpicked but in favor of Kennedy.

Kennedy has no opposition in the Massachusetts primary Tuesday. Neither has Nixon on the Republican ballot. The turnout is expected to be very light.

Political observers will watch Tuesday's Pennsylvania primary for a possible clue to voter sentiment on presidential candidates.

In the presidential preference balloting, voters will find on their ballots only Nixon's name on the Republican side. No Democrats are listed.

Thus national attention will be focused on the number of winners for both parties and the division of votes.

Registrations would point to an easy Republican victory. There are 83,976 Republicans eligible and 66,265 Democrats.

The Indiana poll showing Kennedy ahead of Nixon in the May 3 primary was released by Nixon's office. The two men will be unopposed on separate ballots.

Body of Judge Found in Lake

U.S. Jurist Missing Since Last October

CHICAGO (AP)—The finding of the body of missing Federal Judge W. Lynn Parkinson has climaxed one of Chicago's most famous missing persons cases. Still a mystery is how the 57-year-old jurist met his death.

The discovery apparently resolved the knotty legal problem of filing the judge's seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals.

A passerby spotted the judge's decomposed body Sunday floating face-down in Lake Michigan near the north edge of the Loop. This was several blocks from the Drake Hotel, where the judge vanished Oct. 26, apparently sick and dazed.

The body, identified by a cousin, fingerprints and identification cards, bore no apparent marks of violence. An autopsy report today said everything was consistent with drowning, a theory held by many policemen since the judge's spectacles and umbrella were found along a route leading to the Oak street beach last fall.

An extensive search by skin-divers then failed to turn up clues, giving rise to speculation the judge had met with foul play.

His widow Elsie Ruth maintained her husband was an amnesia victim.

Judge Parkinson's son, William L. Parkinson Jr., who owns a dress shop in West Lafayette, Ind., said that his father was either "put in the lake or had an accident and fell in."

He ruled out suicide saying "Dad wasn't the type to take his own life."

Coroner Walter McCarron said his office would investigate the possibility the judge was robbed. He said no money or jewelry was found on the body.

The judge reported by his family to have suffered from low blood pressure left his office about 4:30 p.m. Oct. 26 to walk to his home a few blocks away. He never made it.

In the next two hours he was seen in cocktail lounges. Two men saw him stumble down an underpass near his office where his glasses later were found. A cab driver and doorman helped him alight from a taxi at the Drake. Between 6:15 and 6:30 p. m. he was seen lurching dazed down the arcade of the Drake. Then he vanished.

The April meeting of the Child Study League was held in the home of Mrs. John Steinhäuser. Guest speaker was Dr. Lowell Smith of Chillicothe. His topic was "Your Children and Discipline."

Dr. Smith said, "Children need help in developing the confidence in themselves that will maintain their self-respect and dignity. Discipline is a matter of teaching and limiting."

"A child learns from the example of his parents. Children are persistent about having their own way. They need guidance from the pre-school age right on into adolescence."

"There is no such thing as a completely peaceful household where there are children. The self-discipline the parent has helped him to achieve, will ensure for him respectful and satisfying relationships with others."

A short business meeting, conducted by the President, Mrs. Paul Whitesed, was held following the program. New officers elected for the coming year are, Mrs. Eugene Schleich, president; Mrs. Karl Morrison, vice president; Mrs. Harold Mace, secretary; and Mrs. Warren Wright, treasurer.

The club voted to contribute to the Leukemia Fund of the Children's Hospital in Columbus.

THE NEXT meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. William D. Radcliff. Several members are planning to attend the Ohio Child Conservation League Central District Spring Conference, April 30, at the Ohio State Fairgrounds in Columbus. A salad course was served by Mrs. Cooke Metzger, Mrs. Jack Clark and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Gehart recently observed their 50th Wedding Anniversary.

Approximately 100 persons were present last Saturday evening at the Parish House to hear guest speaker, Chet Long, noted WBSN-TV newscaster of Columbus. Hosts for the occasion were members of the Child Study League.

Long told of several trips he has made abroad. If everyone could have the privilege to travel to other countries, and could understand their way of living, and they understand ours, it would make for a better world peace, Long said. He commented on the serenity of a small town such as ours, being very similar to his small home town in Indiana.

The flower arrangement, which was used on the tea table, was given to David Drummond, the holder of the lucky ticket. Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, tea and coffee were served at the close of the meeting.

The Sorosis Club met at the home of Mrs. Russell Wardell Monday with 50 members and guests present. Mrs. Robert Adkins of Circleville, presented a paper on "Firsts in Pickaway County."

Mrs. Paul Whitesed presided during the business meeting.

The club will serve food to the blood donors, April 22, when the Bloodmobile comes to the Circleville Methodist Church.

Following the business meeting members modeled Easter Hats which they had created. Prizes were given to Mrs. James Hamman for the most original and Mrs. Don McDill for the prettiest.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the committee composed of Mrs. Archie Rawlinson, Mrs. Van Meter Hulse, Mrs. Lester Wolford, Mrs. Edgar Anderson, Mrs. William Easterday and Mrs. Roy Sampson. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Warren Wright, in May.

THE APRIL meeting of the Parent Teachers Society was held in the Williamsport School Auditorium with about 100 parents and children in attendance. Mrs. Donald Schleich, president, opened the business meeting.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by Gerald Reynolds. The Treasurer, Mrs. Norman Leist, reported a balance of $128.81 plus the profit from the recent basketball banquet of $81.21.

Cecil Roebuck, Principal of the man who talked on the Bond Issue coming up in the May election and explained why the change in the Atlanta and Williamsport School has come about.

The change is due to the enrollment of 48 first graders at Williamsport this next year, which will require two first grades and another room. All the rooms in Williamsport School are filled to capacity. There will be a small enrollment in the Atlanta School.

Mrs. Joseph Peters presented the following musical program. The High School Girls Chorus sang "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning," "Some Enchanted Evening," and "Look for the Silver Lining."

The school band played "Carmen Ohio," "Marching Song," "The Band Played On," and the "Williamsport School Song." The Seventh and Eighth Grade Chorus sang "I Like It Here," "Rosa Linda" and "Chopiniana."

Ruth Barnes played a piano solo; The Senior High Girls and Boys Chorus sang "Hosanna" and the Junior and Senior High Girls and Boys Chorus concluded the program with "Make America Proud of You."

14 Are Injured In Race Riots

Negroes Try To Swim Off Biloxi Beaches

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Gun-carrying police—trying to quell race riots that left 14 wounded or injured in fights—patrolled this Gulf Coast resort city today.

Tension lined faces of both Negro and white residents. Police talked little and moved watchfully for trouble to explode again in this normally gay city of 45,000.

The white sand beaches, where the trouble started Sunday over a Negro attempt to swim from an area reserved for whites, were empty.

Mississippi's worst race riot erupted suddenly on this 28-mile man-made beach under a warm sun on a lazy Sunday afternoon. Three bloody chapters followed in confused sequence.

First, about 50 Negro men, women and children gathered across the highway from a white hotel on the sand. Some stepped into the Gulf of Mexico, the signal for a group of whites to show up. Fighting broke out. Whites chased Negroes off the beach.

Next, four Negro men and about 25 women and children gathered on the beach in front of the New Biloxi Hospital about a mile away from the first fight. A white group broke up the crowd when some of the Negroes stepped into the Gulf.

There was no official version of the fighting, but the four Negroes injured in this melee said their attackers hit them with chains, blackjacks and sticks.

Still later, a huge crowd of Negroes massed in front of the home of Dr. Gilbert Mason, Negro physician. Onlookers variously estimated the crowd at 400 and 500.

Dr. Mason tried to break the beach color barrier by swimming in the Gulf last week. Police arrested him on a disorderly conduct charge. His case is pending in city court.

Police arrested Dr. Mason again Sunday. The charge was fighting and disrupting traffic.

Before the sun went down, a crowd of Negroes estimated by Mayor Laz Quave at 300 to 400 roamed up and down Biloxi streets.

Gun violence broke out at night-fall. Bullets and shotgun pellets wounded eight Negroes and two whites.

1960 Spring Continues To Kick Up Fuss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin and Upper Michigan communities battled floods and a Texas town began picking the debris left by tornadic winds today as spring continued to kick up a fuss in scattered areas of the nation.

Weekend rainfalls of up to 8 inches swelled northern Wisconsin rivers over their banks Sunday. Ramping waters tore away power and communication lines, washed out roads and railroad tracks and chased an estimated 400 persons from their homes.

About 240 residents of the Lake Superior shore community of Odanah, a Chippewa Indian village of 800 on the Bad River Reservation, were forced from their homes by the flooded Bad River. Another 40 were isolated. Wisconsin Gov. Gaylord Nelson declared the affected district a disaster area and ordered out the National Guard to help local officials.

At Hurley, Wis., 25 miles to the east, the flooding Montreal River threatened to wash away one of the two bridges linking Hurley to Ironwood, Mich.

Fierce winds struck the north Texas town of Terrell, about 30 miles east of Dallas, causing extensive property damage. The winds unroofed and damaged buildings at the municipal airport and in the business district and three house trailers were demolished. No injuries were reported.
